JEWELRY

DECORATIVE TREATMENT

Is the chief characteristic of our entire stock of Ornaments. Every article, no matter how small or whatever the price, carries ART and QUALITY in the most distinctive form.

BRACELETS.—

The Bracelet is a most desirable Ornament. The flexible designs set with gems are the new types of Chain Bracelets which still hold the ladies' fancy. Their supple nature, the great variety of styles and the diversity of means of decorating them with precious stones add to their usefulness, while of course they can be worn with any dress, beautiful combinations may be seen in the collection we offer in which the Opal, Peridot, Tourmaline, Ametthyst, Aquamarine, Pearl, Diamond, Ruby and Sapphire effectively reflect their colours.

BROOCHES.—

The Brooch has been worn more generally as a corsage Ornament; in modern designs, therefore, it has partaken somewhat of the Plaque Character and while bold is nevertheless delicately constructed and handsomely jewelled. The LONG BAR BROOCH which has just come prominently into use has started altogether a new vogue for these Ornaments, as everyone is fascinated about them at present in London.

If you are anxious that originality and beauty of design shall be combined with perfection of workmanship and excellent value, we can show you a collection on hand from a stock which is absolutely unparalelled.

EARRINGS.—

As the wearing of earrings do not make it necessary to pierce the lobe of the ears, the use of this form of ornament is not only universal, but we might add is persistently determined. Fashion, on the resuscitation of the ear ornament, has steadily conquered all the weak prejudices of a couple of years ago. There is no fancy in the contention that they enhance the brightness of the eyes and they add to the length of neck. Individual taste, however, differs largely in the selection of gems and design. To meet all such differences, we have on hand a fairly large collection of loose gems of every discription which we can covert into covetable artistic ear ornaments at a most moderate price.

VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This remarkable compound, the result of the latest developments and achievements of modern chemistry, pharmacology, and therapeutics, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve power, whether induced by worry, over-work, unhealthy climate, dissipation, excess, youthful imprudence, or other influences incidental to the wear and tear and haste or overstrain of modern life. Sleeplessness, tremblings, palpitation, nervous dyspepsia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, muscular and local weakness, general and nervous debility, faulty nutrition, premature decay or deficiency of the vital forces, impaired vitality, harassing dreams, night disturbances, sudden startings, dimness of sight, defective hearing, loss of memory, inability to perform the various duties of life, or to enjoy its pleasures, restlessness that can settle to nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, painful periods, backache, bearing down sensations, nervous headache, wasting disease, night sweats, and all other phases of brain and nerve exhaustion, are successfully combated by this highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all weakening wasting discharges, involuntary losses, &c.; restores the failing energies, and imparts new life and vigour to what had so recently seemed worn out, "used up," and valueless.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE.

Never before was there anything like it, nor can its marvellous properties ever be equalled in all cases of poorness, impurity, or other imperfection of the blood from whatever cause arising. No sooner is it imbibed into the system than it permeates and penetrates to the minutest capillaries, overcoming and expelling the virus of disease, wheresoever and in whatsoever form met with; removing all blotches, pimples, scurf, scurvy, scrofulous and glandular swellings, discolorations, roughness and unsightly patches, &c. Its effects are almost magical in the treatment of gout, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, pains and swellings of the joints, discharges, secondary symptoms, eczema, lepra, psoriasis, bad legs, bad breasts, abscesses, ulcers, sores, goitre or Derbyshire neck, it improves the general health, and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma, and hacking, straining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.

CAUTION.—Ask for "VETARZO Brain and Nerve Food," or "VETARZO Blood Medicine," whichever is required, and see that you get them, as unprincipled vendors often try to palm off inferior preparations (usually their own manufacture), for the sake of extra profit. Price in England, 2/9. Every genuine bottle of these medicines bears the British Government Stamp with the words "VETARZO REMEDIES" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground, by direction of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners. Registered Trade Mark "VETARZO." Legal proceedings will be taken against persons pirating.

COMMON SENSE IN A NUTSHELL.—A NEW medical work on the causes and most scientific and effectual means of self-cure ever discovered for nervous exhaustion, depression of spirits, want of zest and energy, &c., with practical observations on marriage and full directions for removing certain disqualifications that destroy the happiness of wedded life. It also treats on urinary derangements, secondary symptoms, stricture, &c., and no sufferer should fail to procure a copy. Post free in plain envelope on receipt of Postal Order Sixpence, from THE VETARZO REMEDIES Co., Gospel Oak, London, or of Agents for above medicines. Price 10 annas Post Free.

CHARGE AGAINST MILL AGENT.

Alleged Criminal Breach of Trust.

ON Saturday, at the Esplanade Police Court, before Mr. A. H. S. Aston, Chief Presidency Magistrate, Mr. Richard H. Fett, Agent of the Barsi Spinning and Weaving Mills Company, Limited, appeared in answer to a charge of criminal breach of trust preferred against him by Mr. Reuben Solomon, one of the directors of the Company. Mr. Acworth, solicitor, of Messrs. Little & Co., appeared for the complainant; while Mr. B. L. Dunlop, Solicitor, of Messrs. Crawford, Brown & Co., with Mr. Vicaji F. Vicaji, Pleader, defended the accused.

PROSECUTION CASE.

Mr. Acworth opening the case for the prosecution said the charge against the accused was one of criminal breach of trust in respect of two sums of money. The accused was the promoter and at some time sole agent of the Company, which was registered, and the memorandum of the articles of association were signed on the 12th July, 1906. In 1909 there was a meeting of the Company, when another set of articles of association was adopted. By the first set of articles, the management was given into the hands of Fett & Co., which then consisted solely of the accused. By the new set of articles, the management was given to Fett, Desai & Co., of which the accused was partner, and an active one. On 22nd October, 1909, an application for five shares was received from Mr David Harris, the application being accompanied by Rs 125, which formed the application-money. On the 28th October 1909, a letter was addressed to Mr David Harris, signed by the accused, notifying the allotment of five shares and acknowledging the receipt of the money. A cheque for Rs 125, was received by the accused, and notwithstanding that the cheque was given in the name of the Company, the amount was never credited to the Company. In fact no shares of the Company were alloted to Mr. Harris. At the time Mr. Harris applied for shares, there were a large number of shares unalloted and capable of being allotted. At some previous time the accused had held five shares of the Company, which he had transferred to five different persons. The prosecution would prove that instead of allotting shares of the Company to Mr. Harris, the accused effected a transference of the above-mentioned five shares to Mr. Harris, the consequence being that the money went into his pocket instead of into the Company's. The result was that the Company lost the value of five shares of Rs. 250 each, because the shares that should have been allotted were not allotted and the accused transferred his shares. Similarly Mr. D. Longworth applied for two shares on the 28th October 1909 and sent Rs. 50 as application-money for the shares. On the 16th December 1909, a receipt was given by the accused in the name of the Company's agents for Rs. 100—Rs. 50 for application-money and Rs. 50 for allottment. That amount was not credited to the Company's account. Although there were a large number of the Company's shares unallotted and capable of being allotted, the accused allotted none of these, but instead he transferred to Mr. Longworth two shares which he himself had taken from the Company, and the result was that the Company lost the total value of the two shares which had been applied for by Mr. Longworth.

Evidence was then recorded, Mr. Reuben Solomon one of the Directors, and Mr. Isaacs Ebrahim, Chairman of the Board of Directors, being examined as witnesses for the prosecution. Further hearing was then adjourned.

THE PARSEE PANCHAYET ELECTIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I am sorry your correspondent, "A Parsee," instead of thanking me for having so readily given him the explanation that he wanted, finds fault with me for not having come forward with the same earlier than now. I need hardly say that I cannot admit the claim of anybody—and in particular, of an anonymous correspondent—to demand an explanation as a matter of right either for himself or even in the name and on behalf of the community, as your correspondent, I do not know with what warrant, presumes to do. But since I have already volunteered to give the explanation that I did in my last letter, I may as well go a step further and say everything else that I have to in the matter.

First of all, I must enter my emphatic protest against the use of the word "caucus" employed by your correspondent when speaking of this movement. To call our combination a caucus, would be tantamount to condemning all legitimate combinations for public and otherwise useful purposes as so many caucuses. I am quite willing to believe that your correspondent used this term more out of ignorance than an uncharitable desire to offend or a deliberate attempt to distort the point at issue.

Your correspondent in his letter under reply raises wider and more delicate issues than in his last; and I must request you, Mr. Editor, to extend your courtesy to me this time in a far greater degree than on the last occasion, in order to enable me to reply fully to all his points.

I agree with your correspondent when he says that the three candidates we have put forward cannot fall under a common category; but why he should have appealed to anybody's imagination to prove that, I fail to see. It has never been said that our candidates belong to the same category, or hold the same opinions or are of the same political school. All that has been said is that they are good men and true, who are willing to serve their community if called upon to do so. I am surprised that in spite of my emphatic denial to the contrary, your correspondent has again brought in questions of "orthodoxy," "religious reform" and so forth. The mere fact that the three gentlemen we have put forward, differ so widely from each other in their educational attainments, in their political and social creeds, in their modes of living and their ways of thinking demonstrate in the clearest possible manner, the absolutely non-partisan spirit of our movement, the sole purpose of which, I repeat, is to put into the Panchayet Board, good and respectable men who would not only be able to safeguard the best interests of the community, but also be willing to spare the requisite time necessary for attending to the laborious work which has now become its daily routine.

Your correspondent goes on to say that my friends and I, for reasons best known to ourselves, have set our faces against Sir P. M. Mehta's candidature. This is not putting the case correctly. In order to understand the position accurately it is necessary to go into a few details. At a particular stage of the compilation of the Election Registers, I learnt with dismay that there was a great danger of the whole affair falling into such hands as one would be unwilling to entrust the entire election to; and also, that certain people were even paying from their own pockets the enrolment fees of a very large number of voters in the D Register for some purpose which was not difficult to guess. At about the same time, the report came out that a wealthy Parsee gentleman, who had played a very prominent part in a certain Case, was turning heaven and earth to get a particular gentleman elected to the Panchayet Board, in order that he may wreck that body, and expose to ridicule and derision the scheme framed by the High Court that brought him in. It should not be difficult to understand, the anxiety of those like myself, who were admirers of the old Panchayet and its work, to see that even under the new scheme nothing happened that would have the effect either directly or indirectly of reducing its prestige, minimising its importance, limiting its scope of utility and adversely affecting its high and respected position as a body composed of the trusted leaders of the Community; and to appreciate my determination to counteract that movement by all legitimate means in my power. The best and most effective way of doing this seemed to be put forward the candidature of three well-known and trusted leaders of the community to fill up the three vacancies. With this object in view, I approached over half a dozen well-known gentlemen, irrespective of their social and political creeds, one by one, and requested each of them to allow me to put his name forward. Their names need not be mentioned at the present moment; but it would be enough to say that every one of them, for some reason or other, preferred not to accept the honour. It was then with the utmost difficulty and after a great deal of persuasion that Messrs. Khareghat, Gamadia, and Wadia at last allowed their names to be put forward. Having done this, I began to work for them by trying to get elected to the Anjuman Committee—who are to be the final electors—such representatives from the different registers as were likely to support these gentlemen. It was at this stage, Mr. Editor, that my combination with my good friends, Mr. Vimadalal and Dr. Daji, took place; and we have thenceforth worked conjointly in the matter.

When our work had considerably advanced and we were very near the committee elections, one day we saw it announced in the papers that both Sir P. M. Mehta and Mr. D. E. Vachha had allowed their names also to be put forward as candidates for the Panchayet. Naturally we discussed this matter among ourselves, looked for the raison-d'etre of this sudden move on the part of a few of Sir Phirosha's most ardent friends and admirers, and after very careful consideration of all the issues involved in the matter, resolved to continue to work as hitherto for the three gentlemen whose candidature we had announced. We are told that Sir P. M. Mehta consented to his candidature being put forward in reply to a telegram despatched in the joint names of Messrs. D. E. Vachha, K. E. Dadachanji, and Meherjibhoy Madon, something to the effect that there was a very strong feeling in the community that he should be elected a trustee. I admit at once and without the slightest hesitation that this is merely a report; but as it is now so widely circulated and so generally believed to be true, that I hope I am not guilty of impropriety if I make use of it. I shall, however, only be too happy to stand corrected if I am in the wrong. What steps these gentlemen took to ascertain this alleged feeling of the community we do not to this moment know; but, if what I state be correct, the fact remains that Sir Phirosha has been placed in an extremely awkward position by these gentlemen who seem to have taken upon themselves to speak in the name of the community, or at all events of a large section thereof, without sufficient care and as subsequent events have since most conclusively shown, even without much justification. It would be, however, interesting to know, the reason why Dr. Dadachanji—assuming that he was one of the signatories to the telegram—was led to take this part, when he was himself contemplating standing as a candidate for one of the vacancies. It would be equally instructive to know why a combination with Drs. Dadachanji and Sukhia was thought necessary by the supporters of Sir Phirosha if his candidature was so largely wished for as some would have us believe. The Anjuman Committee Elections from the different registers have all now come and gone, and it remains to be seen which side succeeds.

So far as I personally am concerned, I don't desire to hide it from the public that I do not believe, that considering everything, Sir Phirosha would be the best man for one of these vacancies. I cannot at present go into all the reasons which have led me to this conclusion; but I may venture upon a few.

I have always very strongly felt and I entirely agree with your correspondent in thinking in his own words "that the Panchayet Trust Board is the last place for Sir Phirosha, bearing in mind the fact that the charities and religious endowments are all associated with orthodox faith and belief centuries old, with which this worthy gentleman cannot be in intellectual sympathy." There is another reason why I think Sir Phirosha should not be anxious to go into the Trust Board. The business that is to be transacted by it, though very heavy and voluminous, is more or less of a formal and purely practical nature; and, I mean no offense to the present and the would-be trustees, when I say that a man of the great ability and calibre of Sir P. M. Mehta would be more useful to the community and even to the Panchayet Board itself when outside than inside it, particularly when we realise that he has to attend to a much wider and far more important sphere of work for the benefit of the whole country than the limited duties to be performed at a Trustee.

In spite of this opinion, however, if Sir Phirosha had been in Bombay and if I had known that he was willing to be on the Panchayet, I for one in my personal capacity would not have had the slightest objection in approaching him also when I approached the others. But now that these three gentlemen have been approached and put forward such a thing is absolutely out of the question. I shall go a step further and say that even if it were possible at this stage to do so owing to some unforeseen circumstance, it would not now be open to me to accept Sir Phirosha for the simple reason that my co-workers and I have obtained the support that we have, on the plain and emphatic assurance given by us to the voters to support the three gentlemen named above.

This, briefly, Mr. Editor, is the reason why I have taken the part that I have in the Parsee Panchayet Election. I trust this will explain matters quite clearly to your correspondents and to all those who wanted to understand my attitude in the matter.

I am at one with your correspondents when he says that Sir Phirosha was at the bottom of the agitation that brought about the destruction of the old Panchayet Constitution; but unlike him, I stop there; for, I do not hold that that was any service to the community. I Sir, have always been and yet am one of that not inconsiderable class in our community that strongly felt from the very beginning that there was absolutely no necessity for disturbing an arrangement which had worked extremely well for a long number of years to the satisfaction of the entire community; and which, if illegally constituted as happened to be the case, the community certainly did not wish to be legalised at such an enormous cost. I think your correspondent would have been well advised for the sake of his own case if he had left this matter severely alone.

I have never denied that Sir Phirosha Mehta is by far the ablest, the most astute and the most sagacious man now alive in our community; and as one, who has been very closely associated with him in public work for the last ten years, I beg to assure all those who seem to think that I have committed a heinous offence in differing from him this time, that I am second to none in my admiration of his many sterling qualities of head and heart. But, unlike many of his friends and admirers, I have always insisted upon thinking for myself on all questions and upon having unfettered liberty of action in spite of the fact that Sir Phirosha and I happened to agree in ninety-nine out of a hundred questions on which it has been my privilege to work with him.

I regret the inordinate length of this letter; but I have given expression to almost everything I wanted to say. I do not think it would serve any useful purpose to prolong this controversey any further; and must now decline further correspondence. If, however, any of your correspondents, or, for the matter of that, anybody interested in the question, is desirous of having further explanation from me, I shall be only too pleased to give it orally whenever requested to do so.

I may add in conclusion that I have absolutely nothing to do with the views expressed by your other correspondents, with most of which I am not in sympathy. It is not fair to ascribe to me everything and anything that is being said in this controversy,—Yours, etc.,

JEHANGIR BOMANJEE PETIT.

II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—While thanking you for finding a corner in your issue of yesterday for my contribution on the subject, which you have appropriately named the "Parsee General Election," I am sorry you have, in the exercise of your editorial privileges, omitted from publication certain matters which added force to and emphasized my contention, why the Parsee Community as a whole objects to Sir P. M. Mehta's nomination as one of the Trustees of the Panchayet Funds.

Had you not exercised your privilege, probably your correspondent, "A Parsee," would not have so hastily rushed to reply to my letter, for he would then have found that some of us know more than it was or is desirable to be given to the public, he could have held his peace as he has done—and wisely so—in the matter of the letter of "An Independent Voter" published at foot of my letter in your issue of yesterday.

Now that you have done the Parsee Community the great service of ventilating in the columns of an English paper, which is read by other than those who take their cue from our Guzarati papers, you will add to your obligation by allowing me just to reply to "A Parsee." It is easy to befriend and protect one's idol by generalizing on his great virtues, patience, and force of character; for no one likes to expose the fallacy of the same in public, but as soon as "A Parsee" comes to particulars, and you permit (and which I trust in justice and all fairness you will do) your columns for reply, the fetish and idol of your correspondent will be so exposed and unmasked that the tactics will be put into force to hush up any further discussion as to the merits and worth of the candidates for the trusteeship.

It is indeed something new to be told that the reputation of being tardy and dilatory which Sir P. M. Mehta enjoys is really due to his "strict methods of disposing of public business" and that "he is not off-hand in his methods, he studies voluminous papers from day to day with accuracy and precision." Why, Sir, there was a distinguished Chief Justice of Bombay who had also the reputation of being tardy and dilatory; he delivered a judgment some three years after the case had been closed, began out his reasons, that he was studying the authorities, and yet nevertheless he left our shores with the reputation of being tardy and dilatory.

As to Sir P. M. Mehta's "business capacity," had you not used your editorial privilege, my letter would have refuted, but in only a very small measure, his business capacity. The instance given by "A Parsee" of the services Sir P. M. Mehta rendered in "respect of the Tower of Silence property," is perhaps one of the reasons why the Parsee community is looking with distrust on his appointment. If there is one thing, of which there is no doubt, and it is one in which Sir P. M. Mehta has always taken pride, it is "his diplomacy"—wherever he can save officials from a dilemma, he is always to the fore, and that is what the majority of the Parsee Community think he really did in this instance by your correspondent. He saved the face of the Chairman of the Improvement Trust and got as a lac of rupees more, but if the Trustees had been forced by the Parsee Public opinion to do what it wanted, viz., to go to law, there is no doubt we could have repudiated the bargain so lightly made and would have got a still better price for our property.

The same can be said of all and everything he has done in the Corporation and elsewhere. I will only illustrate what I mean by a remark made to me by a distinguished Municipal Commissioner of Bombay, that Sir P. M. Mehta was their best prop and support of us officers of the Municipality—that if the Commissioner's salary is to be increased, or the delinquencies of an official have to be got over, Sir P. M. Mehta is always to the fore, to appoint a committee to report and when the report at last—mainly owing to his dilatoriness after some years—sees the light of day it is promptly shelved as being now undesirable to take any further steps upon—and thus he rightly holds in the estimation of the Parsee community, as a master mind of diplomacy.

I am in a position to reply "seriatim" to every one of the fallacious points attempted to be made by "A Parsee" to explain away my meaning, why the majority of the Parsee community would rather not have Sir P. M. Mehta as one of their trustees, but that I have already transgressed by the length of this, the courtesy afforded me.

Bombay, 11th February 1911

EXCELSIOR CINEMATOGRAPH.

The great attraction, Napoleon, billed as the star film this week at the Novelty Theatre, Bombay, drew packed houses at each of the sessions on Saturday and Sunday night. This magnificent military drama, acted as it is by the greatest artistes France has in her theatres to-day, is full of exciting and thrilling incidents. Step by step, we are shown the leading features of this great hero's career finishing with his death at St. Helena. The battle scenes are grand and the descriptive effects are splended. One hears the guns at a distance, the firing of the rifles as the men charge, and one can almost imagine that one is close to the scene. The pictures, with the effects added, enhance the enjoyment of this great film. There are several other excellent films on the programme, and we may especially mention the whimsical acrobats. This is one of the cleverest trick films seen in Bombay, and the sight of the tiny lad supporting the whole troupe is really laughable. The view of Viege valley was much admired and pictures of this description are certainly most instructive and entertaining.

COMING EVENTS AT HYDERABAD.

WE mentioned recently that there was a probability of Hyderabad retaining its Assistant Finance Minister for a year or two longer, until some decision had been reached regarding the phases of the currency question, discussed in Mr. Walker's last note. We now learn that he has decided to retire in June, and the names of several Anglo-Indian officials are already mentioned in connection with the appointment, as His Highness the Nizam is credited with the intention of continuing the European supervision which has been so successful in the financial branch of his administration. Among those alluded to is a Civilian, well-known in Bombay a few years ago, whose qualifications are undeniable, but it is unlikely that any definite announcement will be made for some weeks to come, as matters are not yet sufficiently advanced for the disclosure of the identity of Hyderabad's new adviser. Another impending retirement is that of the Financial Secretary who will revert to the British service a few months hence. Mr. Hydari's successor will, in all probability, be chosen locally as there are several officials well-suited for the office, provided the general supervision of finance is continued on the present lines. But an event of more importance than either of these is the approaching departure of the Resident, Sir Charles Bayley, who, for the past six years, has filled with considerable success the highest political appointment in the gift of the Government of India. He is taking six months' leave and will return to India at the end of August to succeed Sir L. Hare as Lieutenant-Governor of Eastern Bengal and Assam, as the latter's term of office will then expire. While it may be taken for granted that Sir C. Bayley's coming elevation to the pro-consulship is an indication that the Government of India are satisfied with his handling of Hyderabad affairs, we have had the recent local testimony of the Nizam himself that he and his administration have been in perfect accord with the departing Resident and that regrets at the approaching separation are mutual. Matters in the past have not always been at this pleasant stage as there have been occasions when dissociations of this kind were looked upon as terminating periods of relationship that had been neither happy nor satisfactory. But these old aspects of the situation disappeared a decade ago with the advent of Sir David Barr, and his policy of sympathy and non-interference, outlined between himself and Lord Curzon, now well established at Hyderabad, and which has proved a better and more workable substitute for the ideals of Lord Lytton's day which were applied with much severity to the State and produced consequences, which are still remembered. The crux of the position for half a century was the perennial Berar rendition question, as successive Ministers took it up with the hope of arranging a favourable settlement, while the Government of India were equally determined not to relinquish territorial guarantee for the up-keep of the contingent so long as the latter remained a separate force chargeable to the revenues of the assigned province. Many schemes were propounded for the re-adjustment of the situation, created by Dalhousie's treaty of the early fifties, but none of them were acceptable to both sides until Hyderabad had ceased to derive any surplus from a territory whose gross revenues had risen to a crore and a quarter of rupees, while the contingent cost about a third of this sum. The balance went to support the most expensive administration in India and in the maintenance of a huge cash balance, so that there were no financial crumbs for Hyderabad and the necessity of ending a prolonged controversy became a cardinal point of Lord Curzon's policy.

The scheme, put forward and carried through will be most consummate ability by Sir Charles Bayley's predecessor ten years ago, terminated the existence of the contingent as a separate force. Even its famous band whose merits caused Lord Curzon to covet and appropriate the Director who had trained it has disappeared, while all its regiments renamed after distinguished Residents and Commanders have been drafted into the general army of India. Berar is finally linked with the Central Provinces and the Nizam receives compensation at the rate of twenty-five lakhs per annum and the privilege of having his flag hoisted and saluted in his principal town upon the anniversary of his birthday. This arrangement synchronised with certain important changes of policy towards Hyderabad which have made Sir C. Bayley's task of continuing the relations then established, easy and light, by his careful observance of them and the absence of any desire on his part to substitute Residency influences for the more legitimate methods of governing the State under the leadership of the Nizam. He has been regularly consulted upon all points affecting its attitude towards the Government of India and his advice has been sought and given in matters in which it was felt that he comes to be useful counsellor. But as regards the management of internal affairs the autonomy conferred upon it by Lord Curzon has remained unimpaired.

For a long series of years we exercised what were practically ultra-treaty rights, defensible only on precedents, in declining to permit ministerial changes at Hyderabad unless convinced of their necessity in the general interests of administrative peace, and instances could be quoted of these exalted officials receiving the Residency support when they had forfeited the confidence of the Nizam and he wished to displace them, a right he undoubtedly possesses by virtue of his position as head of the State and his reponsibility for its efficient government. This anomalous situation was the origin of periodical disagreements and for the practical withdrawal of the ruler from active participation in its affairs until Lord Curzon discerned the cause of the trouble and took measures for its deletion. Under his instructions, which coincided with his own views, Sir David Barr announced that in all matters affecting the well-being of the State and its relations with the Government of India he recognised the paramountcy of the Nizam and would discuss them with nobody else. The effect of this decision which has been scrupulously followed by his successor is visible in the Hyderabad of to-day and accounts for Sir C. Bayley's ability to say "it is to your Highness' constant friendship and unstinted trust that I owed whatever success I have achieved, for my predecessor prepared you to welcome me as a friend. My way has been made smooth throughout and my family and I have received nothing but kindness since the day we arrived in Hyderabad ; kindness which has often touched us deeply and which we can never forget." This sentence is really an epitome of the retiring Resident's six years' association with the State, for there has been no friction or any of the other portents such as have proposed those periodical "events" in the by-gone story of Hyderabad and have given its wire-pullers and the newspapers much occupation. It is now in the fortunate position of having no history, as that term used to be applied to its affairs, save a record of unbroken and continuous progress which has transformed the Resident into an approving on-looker, instead of a fault-finding critic, guided by the monitors who used to sow dissension between the two Governments. For these reasons the last six years' annals of Hyderabad have been of the quietest and most uneventful kind, absolutely destitute of all exciting situations, and the Nizam and the Resident view with mutual regrets the dissolution of an association which has been a valuable auxiliary to the onward career of the State.

THE HARBOUR RAILWAY. LAST week an addition of considerable importance was made to the existing communications of our Island City by the quiet opening of the Harbour Railway. We have been so long accustomed to seeing only two railways in the island that a third one may well be looked upon as a welcome novelty, and the public would have been glad if its inauguration had been attended with some sort of demonstration which would have brought it into notice. People as yet are not well aware where the new railway runs, and how it is to benefit the city. The island is so circumscribed that people can hardly imagine that there is room enough for three railways to run parallel. When the Great Indian Peninsula Railway was opened in Bombay, now nearly fifty-eight years ago, the whole city was en fete, salutes of guns were fired by the order of the Commander-in-Chief in honour of the opening and the day was observed as a public holiday. The novelty of a railway has, of course, worn off, and we have also grown less demonstrative, though we may doubt the latter fact, especially when we read of the brilliant ceremonial this very week with which the Ghaut Power scheme was inaugurated. Probably, when the new Harbour Railway is quite completed, the authorities will rise to the occasion and not be content as now to hide their light under a bushel. The new railway is an essential part of the scheme of what may well be called Greater Bombay. We all remember now the prophetic words of Governor Aungier, two hundred and thirty-five years ago when he wrote of a "city which by God's assistance is to be built" on the site of the then fishermen's village of Bombay. That city has been built, but it requires to be extended. Trade has increased enormously and will increase still more when the Alexandra Docks will come into use in a year or two. The eastern harbour side of the island had until recently been neglected. Attention is now being given to the development of this part of our island and the facilities to trade which will thereby be given will add still more to its volume in future years. The Harbour Railway has been constructed with the two-fold object of bringing the docks and the shipping in direct touch with the goods brought into Bombay to be exported and of utilising lands which now lie waste along the eastern foreshore for building purposes and make them grow into a flourishing suburbs.

In the last generation the G. I. P. Railway practically marked the eastern limit of the busy island. Between it and the sea there was not much doing and the space was almost a wilderness. The Prince's Dock and still more the Victoria Dock have changed the face of that part of the town. The Alexandra Dock will change it still more completely, and the new railway will materially affect in this object. The Harbour Railway was projected nearly twenty years ago to connect the docks then existing with the two railways which had their termini far off. Much delay and expense were incurred in tran-shipping the exports brought by the railways. There was a good deal of opposition of vested interests and the railway was sanctioned only a few years ago when the Alexandra Dock rendered its construction almost essential. Starting from the latter dock it traverses the entire length of the eastern side of Bombay, terminating on the Sion Causeway where it joins the G. I. P. near Kurla. It also forms a junction with the Bombay Baroda Railway at Mahim by a chord branching off near Matunga. Thus, by means of this line, both the great existing railways are directly brought into communication with the docks and the goods brought by them can be directly transhipped or kept in godowns close by for transhipment afterwards. The heavy expense of cartage will then be saved among other things. At present, of its entire length of eleven miles, seven miles between Kurla and Tank Bunder near Mazagon are ready and the line has been opened for traffic so far. Of the remaining four miles a great part has been constructed and the whole line will, it is hoped, be available for traffic next year, when the new dock also will be ready. The portion opened last week runs through a very pleasant part of Bombay, and is decidedly more picturesque than the existing railways, especially that between Sewri and Koliwada which is near the ancient suburb of Salvesong, mentioned by Fryer and other early writers. This suburb and several others are sure to benefit by the new railway which now runs in their midst, and we shall not be surprised if, in the course of the next few years, a large population with springs up there. The new railway, besides helping in the development of trade, will also considerably facilitate the solution of the vexed problem of housing the working classes.

BUDDHIST INDIA. IN considering the last report of the Archæological Survey, Government have taken the opportunity of paying a merited tribute to the retiring Superintendent, Mr. Henry Cousens. Mr. Cousens' work is well known to scholars and especially to students of Buddhistic remains, and his labours have helped in no small degree to open up one of the most interesting periods in Indian history. Mr. Cousens joined the service of Government in 1881, and has been in charge of the Archæological Survey of Bombay since 1890. His contributions to the advencement of knowledge were recognized in the award of the Kaiser-i-Hind gold medal in 1904, and Government have now placed on record their appreciation of the high character of his work and of his unremitting industry. His many friends in these provinces will welcome this official word of praise, which will recall to them Mr. Cousens' courtesy and readiness for help and the kindness with which he put his store of accurate information at the disposal of others. Mr. Cousens has just retired from Government service, and his last report, which the Government finds to be of great value and importance, deals chiefly with the exploration of a Buddhist shrine in Sind. The publication of the report will be awaited with interest. Mr. Cousens has come to the conclusion that Buddhism was established in Sind in the early centuries of our era, and that it was then in fact the prevailing religion in that province. This conclusion is in harmony with the opinions of those who have studied the history of the period. Sand and the jungle have buried and hidden out of sight most of the enduring remains of the time, but sufficient evidence has always been left in caves and pillars and in statues, too big to escape notice, to convince scholars of the industrial and intellectual activity of early Buddhism. From the valleys of the frontier of India down to our own familiar Karli and Pandu land, the effect of such fresh excavation or decipherment has been to throw an increasingly favourable light on the period and on the part of India in which Buddhism prevailed. Knowledge spread, commerce flourished and building with stone began. Not only the monks of the Buddhist faith, but the people who followed them, were moved by devotion to learning and simple piety; and Western India at the time when it was cut off from direct communication with Europe and the Roman Empire, approached more nearly to European ideals and conditions of living, than at any other time. Why the light should have guided, and why the conditions of living should have altered, are questions which historians have still to answer. Work like that of Mr. Cousens is helping to find the solution, and in time we may hope to have the tale of the whole Buddhist period from Asoka to the beginning of the Mahomedan movement more fully and clearly told.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.

Austrian Naval Budget.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, JAN. 28.

The Russo-German conversations are progressing with the slow deliberation befitting the momentous interests involved and the delicate task of co-ordinating them for a long period ahead. For, although formally the building of railway lines constitutes the principal theme of discussion, the upshot of the settlement will be far-reaching. For Russia obtains indirectly the long-desired access to the Persian Gulf, and Germany secures a thorough harmonisation of the Near Eastern policy of both countries. Russia and Germany under these conditions could not afford to hurry each other in any part of the world. This implies that the impending agreement, when drafted and ratified, will itself constitute adequate evidence and a trustworthy pledge of the amicable sentiments of each towards the other. Consequently, an explicit promise by each party, not to enter into any league or entente, the point of which is levelled against the partner, would be superfluous in the diplomatic notes, the exchange of which will announce to the world a few weeks hence that the Russo-German agreement is complete. I am accordingly enabled to affirm that this stipulation, which was duly emphasised by the German Chancellor in his recent speech in the Reichstag, will be omitted altogether from the text of the agreement, but only because it is deemed superfluous. As a matter of fact, during the conversations at Potsdam these mutual assurances of peaceful and friendly tentions were given solely by way of preface to the negotiations, or, say, as an overture to what may well be termed music of the future.

RUSSIA AND ANARCHIST PLOTS.

A sketch of the Anarchist movement in Russia, which has just been issued by the Ministry of the Interior, throws light on the Anglo-Russian Anarchist entente. The circle of Anarchists in St. Petersburg was first formed eight years ago by a man named Roganovitch, who came to Bielostok from England, and gathered around him a group of Anarchists, who devoted themselves exclusively to murder and robbery. The next band practised "expropriation" only on Government property. Here again, the moving spirit, according to the Russian Ministry, was Judah Grossman, editor of a London journal called "The Black Flag." During the first half of 1907 a secret society was found at Warsaw, for the purpose of assassinating Kaiser Wilhelm. Four agents of this criminal association were despatched to Charlottenburg, where they sojourned for some time. Meanwhile the Anarchists held a conference in the city of Vilna, and resolved to send two notorious desperadoes to Charlottenburg with instructions to expedite matters ; but, thanks to the efficient German system of espionage, the conspiracy was discovered, and one desperado was arrested, while the other committed suicide. In behalf of the Russian Government, one Felix Chimansky has been arrested at Ixelles, near Brussels. He was born in Russian Poland in 1888, and is known as an engineering student. The Russian Government has asked for his extradition on the ground that Chimansky took part in the assassination of a Russian judicial functionary. The Belgian Government before granting the extradition, will take steps to ascertain whether the crime is one punishable under Common Law, as in one or two recent instances the authorities have been led to grant extraditions for purely political offences. The police at Buda-Pesth have arrested a medical man, named Peter Serafinoff, aged 32, of Varna Bulgaria, who is reputed to be a dangerous Anarchist. On his person were found letters of introduction from the Servian revolutionary party, in which Serafinoff was recommended as an enthusiastic Terrorist, Anarchist, and Socialist to all the Anarchists of the world. He fled here from Moscow, where he had been sentenced to death for being implicated in Terrorist plots. He has been in hiding here a fortnight, and has been mixing with Servian, Bulgarian, and Russian residents. On being arrested he admitted that he belonged to a Terrorist society of Moscow, and that, if necessary, he would assassinate the Tsar.

AUSTRIAN NAVAL BUDGET.

Monday's report that about £20,000,000 would be demanded from the Austro-Hungarian delegations for purposes of the army and navy was thrown into the shade next day by the actual figures which are presented to the public. According to the officially published Budget which is to be laid before the delegates the demands for the army and navy amount to £23,000,000. Among the many details mentioned over £13,000,000 are required for the army, that is to say, about £1,166,000 more than last year. Besides this amount the War Minister demands £833,000 for military equipment and £166,000, for the new field artillery. Simultaneously with the army estimates the naval requirements are published as given by the naval commander. This programme includes naval demands up to and inclusive of 1916. It gives £13,000,000 as the total, to be distributed as follows : Four Dreadnoughts £10,100,000, Cruisers of 3,500 tons displacement £1,250,000, six torpedos boats £750,000, twelve ocean-going torpedo-boats £500,000, six submarines £400,000. For the current year the naval commander asks for £2,000,000 as a first instalment towards the naval programme. As compared with last year's Budget for the army and navy, the present one shows an increase of more than £4,166,000. The naval Budget provides also for an addition of 2,000 seamen. It contains a surprise in regard to the three battleships Erzherzog Franz Ferdinand, Radetzky, and Zrinyi, as it states that changes will be made in the original scheme of building, in order to increase their fighting power. These changes involve an increased cost of £125,000, and in addition the armament of these ships must be modified, and the quick-firing guns improved, involving an additional cost of £270,000. Among the grounds given for the enlarged naval programme, it is stated that as the extent of the coast has been considerably increased by the annexation of Bosnia, it must be secured against any eventual hostile action, also that only ships of the Dreadnought type are taken into consideration for battleships, these being the only vessels promising success in modern fighting. "The general recognition of the Dreadnought type makes it appear at present possible, at a relatively small cost, to bring our naval armaments to necessary enlargement as dictated by our commercial and military interests. Delay at this favourable juncture might in some years prevent this object being attained, even at great financial sacrifice. This last phrase is noticeable, as, when examined, it implies pretty clearly that the navy must now be sufficiently stregthened, as in some years no time would be found for this purpose, even were money offered in abundance. It is worthy of remark that simultaneously with the publication of the naval programme the announcement is made that Admiral Montecuccoli has been promoted to the rank of Minister, receiving the emoluments attached to the post, but not the title.

TURKEY AND POTSDAM AGREEMENT.

The sitting of the Chamber on Saturday was devoted to questioning the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the Potsdam agreement. The first of the Opposition deputies on the list of speakers, Chefik Bey, read a long discourse, going back to Roman history, the burden of which was to accuse the West of a desire to subjugate the East. He declared that after the Revolution of 1908, Turkey for some time possessed the friendship and respect of Europe, but that the present deplorable Government and Administration was inferior to that of Abdul Hamid. The existing regime, he said, provoked anew the ambitions of the West. Chefik Bey's speech aroused stormy protests from all sides of the Chamber. Ferid Bey, deputy for Kutahiah, delivered a much more serious speech, which was heard with attention. He declared that in the Potsdam agreement he saw only the natural result of the negotiations which were begun with Germany at the time of the Anglo-Russian agreement with regard to Persia in 1907. He read the text of the agreement published in a London Paper, and said that the declarations of Baron Marshall von Bieberstein published semi-officially in the Tannin, passed in silence over the vital question for Turkey, namely, the construction of railways in the north east of Anatolia. He regarded this silence as confirming the rumour of an Anglo-French understanding with Russia in connection with the Bagdad railway. In conclusion, Ferid Bey read a long list of questions, which he held out to Rifaat Pasha, and invited him to give a categorical reply—yes or no. The Minister of Foreign Affairs then rose to speak, and stated at the outset that the Government was not prepared to indicate the solution of all the diplomatic question included in the list of Ferid Bey. Nevertheless he thought he would be able to give explanations which would be sufficient to reassure Ottomon public opinion. It was, he said, perfectly apparent, from the diplomatic correspondence, that Germany recognised the special interests of Russia in Northern Persia, and that she was in agreement with Russia as to the joining up of the railways. He might, however, in addition, reiterate the declarations made by Baron Marshall and communicated to the Press. The denials in relation to the non-construction of the railways in North-East Anatolia and the fixing of the terminus of the Bagdad railway were not inserted in the Note left by Baron Marshall, but emanated from him personally, and the word of a man such as he was sufficient. With regard to the silence of Russia Rifaat Pasha replied that M. Sasanoff, when questioned by the Porte, intimated that he associated himself with the declarations of Baron Marshall von Bieberstein. So far as concerned the alleged Anglo-French agreement in relation to the Bagdad railway the Minister of Foreign Affairs stated that France and England, with whom his relations were excellent, had also been questioned, and declared that they were not in negotiation and that if they desired to negotiate in regard to the Bagdad railway, they would treat direct with the Porte. The Opposition deputies attempted no reply and the Chamber immediately gave a vote of confidence by show of hands.

A VIENNA ROMANCE.

A prominent feature of the Vienna Press this morning on Wednesday was an interesting romance of which the hero is a Catholic priest and the heroine a Viennese actress. The latter, Fraulein Kloetzl, was until lately engaged at the Neue Buhne. Last February, while visiting some friends at Leipzig, she made the acquaintance of the chaplain of the Trinity Church, named Hans Koschiniski. She met him again in the following August at Marienbad, and the mutual attraction which each had felt for the other was strengthened to such an extent that they formed the resolution to marry. But priestly vows stood in the way. Father Koschiniski, however, overcame his scruples on this point and a few days later throwing off his allegiance to the Pope, he was received into the Protestant Church at Eger where, on Sept. 24, the marriage was solemnised. Supsequently the newly-married couple went to Vienna, where Koschiniski endeavoured to find employment. Last November, while the young wife went away for a few days to visit her relations in Germany, a priest, Father Rotzinger, director of the seminary at Prague, called upon Koschiniski, and had a long conversation with him, the result of which was that Koschiniski declared his repentance, and expressed a desire to be reconciled with the Catholic Church. The natural corollary of this was, of course, a separation from his wife. The ex-priest, now about to resume his cassock left Vienna for a monastery near Saxony. During the journey, however, his health broke down, and possibly his resolution also faltered. Anyhow, he returned to his wife's house in Vienna. But his sacerdotal colleagues, in their anxiety for his spiritual welfare, gave him no peace. Father Rotzinger and other priests bombarded him with telegrams and letters urging him to return to the fold. All that Frau Koschiniski could discover was that her husband was in a disciplinary monastery in Germany, where only priests who have flouted ecclesiastical authority purge their sin by a period of severe penance. Frau Koschiniski, who is now doing everything in her power to obtain her husband's freedom, states in the newspapers that he was induced to desert her by threats and cunning. In a farewell letter to his wife which is published to-day, Koschiniski says : "I dare not inform you of anything with regard to my future. When I think of what awaits me I have need of all my courage. I shall devote my life to my Maker and shall weep for you when you little think of me. My happiness is crushed. Accept this last greeting of a brokenhearted man."

MUNICIPAL SERVANTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I believe, very shortly, the Municipal Commissioner, Mr. P. R. Cadell, will have before him for consideration the return showing the names of all the superannuated officers and servants in the employ of the Municipality, and you will be doing a great service to the public in reminding that gentleman of the notice of motion given by a prominent member of the Corporation some months ago as regards the inadvisability of allowing time-expired men to remain in service for an indefinite period and the assurances upon which the notice was withdrawn by him. The Municipal Commissioner is sure to find in the return about a hundred men who are more or less absolutely unfit for further work and are yet recommended for further extension of service by their superiors. Frivolous as have often been the pretexts for retaining these men in the service, none are more abhorrent to us than those which insist upon further return of these "ancients" on the ground of their mature experience. You will admit that in this world, simple experience is far from being a virtue. If a man has become weak, both physically and mentally, his experience is of no avail. Such a man may have the will to do a certain work but he lacks the main qualification for the task, namely, energy. It is to be hoped, therefore, that on this occasion the Municipal Commissioner will exercise his own judgment and not depend upon the recommendations of the Heads of Departments who, on account of their long association with their servants, are actuated by a sense of pity rather than that of duty and thus continue to praise their subordinates every year even as Giordano Bruno, the Italian poet and philosopher, praised that respectable quadruped, the ass, by writing a sonnet upon its virtues. I am pretty sure that this time, the attempt of these old folks to convince the Commissioner of their capability for work by the smartness of their looks and dress will fail. The free use of hair dye will go in vain. The present Commissioner cannot but read their hypocritical faces aright by the light of his own experience. I must frankly say that the Heads of Departments in showing kindness to their old servants forget how unjustly they are behaving towards the new "entrants" and the public. Now-a-days in India, a man's term of life may be fixed at 60 and a native public servant cannot generally be regarded as fit for active service after the age of 52 or 53 and he should be forced to enjoy the fruits of his labour in retirement when he has reached the latter age. I am told that in the case of one Municipal employe, the extensions of service have been granted eleven times after his attaining the age of 55 and strange to say, he is again recommended for the 12th extension. Will the Commissioner's good sense tolerate the absurdity of retaining such old officers in his service for another year ? We all know that the want of energy and vigour creates in old officers a desire to shirk work and to stifle enquiry and prolong the reign of ignorance by adherence to old traditions and formalities. The Corporation, in fact, does not get the full value for the money spent on these men and younger officers have to rest hopelessly in the lower ranks.—Yours, etc.,

DIFFICULTY OF SELECTING INDIANS.

Nomination of Judges.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.

A paragraph in the Times draws attention to the difficulty in regard to the nomination of Indians to the Executive Councils owing to the small number available, notwithstanding the fact that the provision, requiring for European members of the Bombay and Madras Governments, at least twelve years service in India, does not apply to Indians.

The difficulty in the case of the nomination of eminent Judges has been the subject of correspondence between Calcutta and Whitehall, and it is understood that the Secretary of State has authorised an amendment whereby, under certain restrictions, the pensionable interests of Judges of the High Court, becoming members of the Government will be fully secured.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE.

Unionists and a Reform Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

The Times states that the Unionist leaders in the House of Lords have decided not to introduce a Reform Bill of their own.

The Westminster Gazette dwells on the importance of the decision and says:—"It was one thing to pass a number of highly self-denying ordinances, but quite another to work out the details and offer them as an acceptable sacrifice to their opponents in the House of Commons."

LONDON, Feb. 11.

Lord Curzon, speaking at the United Club, said that the amendment of the Constitution was only practicable by common consent. It was the duty of the Unionists to press reasoned amendments to the Government's Bill. He outlined a scheme for a reformed House of Lords, and said there was no reason why all classes, peer and workman, should not be represented in the House of Lords.

Lord Curzon paid a tribute to Mr. Balfour. The Unionists, he said, knew no other leader. Mr. Balfour was the greatest Parliamentary leader since Pitt, and his services to the Party were greater than those of any living statesman.

LONDON, Feb. 12.

Mr. Masterman, speaking at Stratford, said that the Veto Bill would become law this session, and, he hoped, before the Coronation.

"Times" Announcement Criticised.

LONDON, Feb. 11.

The Unionist papers generally consider that the Times' announcement that the Unionist leaders in the House of Lords intend dropping the reforms is premature. They declare that the leaders are still considering the position.

The Liberal press gives prominence to the announcement, and is jubilant at the idea that the Lords are climbing down.

In view of the attack on the Governor on February 2nd, the fact that his aggressors, who are Russian subjects, have been detained in the Russian Consulate, since the event, is likely to produce a suspicion of foul play, but up to the present there is no evidence to favour this theory.

THE RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT.

President Taft and Anglo-American Unity.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

COLUMBUS, OHIO, Feb. 11.

President Taft, speaking at the National Corn Exposition, reassured the farmers on the subject of reciprocity. The admission of Canada's surplus wheat, he said, would not perceptibly influence prices.

The greatest reason for the adoption of reciprocity was the fact that the Agreement would unite two kindred peoples to their mutual advantage.

All must be prepared to make concessions for the common good.

People's Opinion to be Heard.

Mr. Paterson, the Minister of Customs, defending the Agreement, said that an opportunity would be afforded for the people to pronounce on it at no distant date. Reciprocity would be a live issue at the elections and he was confident that the verdict would be favourable.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.

The reciprocity debate has been adjourned till Tuesday, to enable Sir W. Laurier and Mr. Fielding to confer.

Twenty-five French Liberals abstained from voting on Mr. Monk's amendment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives has reported favourably on the Reciprocity Agreement between Canada and the United States, by 12 votes to 7. The terms of the report are unusual, one enthusiast declaring that if they could abolish all tariffs between the two countries, it would have the effect on American trade of another Louisiana purchase.

President Taft, yesterday, addressed the Legislature at Springfield, Illinois, on the benefits of the Reciprocity Agreement, especially from the point of view of farmers.

Mr. Roosevelt, speaking at Michigan, urged the adoption of the Agreement, declaring that among the Powers on earth there was none with which Americans should desire to be on a more intimate footing than with Canada.

BENGAL PROVINCIAL CONGRESS COMMITTEE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Feb. 12.

On Friday last, the Bengal Provincial Congress Committee met in the Indian Association rooms under the presidency of Mr. J Ghosal and formed the nucleus of a Reception Committee for the next Sessions of the Congress. Under the constitution, such can be taken in as members of the Reception Committee who accept the constitution of the Congress. It was resolved that the secretaries should approach gentlemen in Calcutta and in the moffusil with a view to enlist their sympathy for the Congress and should request them to join the Reception Committee. The Committee then discussed a date for holding a meeting of the Reception Committee. Mr. J. Choudhuri, Babu Prithwas Chandra Ray and Babu Satyananda Bose were appointed provincial secretaries.

It is understood that the principal subjects to be discussed at the Educational Conference which will assemble at Allahabad to-day will, be primarily technological and moral education. The Conference is a strong one as it includes not only all the Directors of Public Instruction, but the principal officers engaged in the Technical Education and several Indian gentlemen. The object is to clear the way for the preparation of proposals for a definite programme to improve and extend education in India. The non-official gentlemen attending the Educational Conference will be Messrs. Gokhale, Mudholkar, Sunderlal, R. N. Mukherjee, Shams-ul-Huda, Nawab Abdul Majid, J. C. Ghoss and Subramania Iyer of Bombay. There appear to be no names from the Punjab or from Madras.

THE KING'S INDIAN TOUR

A Parliament House.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Feb 11.

The "Indian Daily News" draws special attention to the need of a Parliament House for housing the Imperial and Bengal Councils and says :—

Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson will give us a good surplus this year, and a small portion of it might well be diverted to this useful and urgent work. The erection of a Parliament House will produce a great effect on the Indian public, and if arrangements can be made that His Majesty the King-Emperor during his stay in Calcutta shall lay the foundation-stone of the building it will prove highly popular. The intention of the Committee of the King Edward Memorial to erect the statue in time for its unveiling by the King has had to be abandoned since the period elapsing will be too short for it to be designed and erected. The proposed alternative is worthy to form the central feature of His Majesty's visit here and we hope the suggestion will be capable of adoption.

Calcutta Arrangements.

Sir John Hewett has been on a brief visit to Calcutta to discuss the details of the Coronation Durbar with His Excellency the Viceroy and the members of the Government of India. Preliminary estimates are now under preparation, but until the final programme is submitted no accurate estimate is available. An outline has been drawn up which will include a State arrival, the Coronation ceremonial, a military display and State Banquet, an Investiture and State ball. It may now be taken for granted that the actual Coronation will not take place in the Fort and probably an amphitheatre will be built. It is also understood that special train will be constructed for the Royal use.

Invitations from Native States.

The forthcoming visit of the King-Emperor is a topic, which is being seriously discussed in the Courts of the Feudatory Chiefs and many of them are anxious that the Emperor should pass through their States. It is stated that the Nizam of Hyderabad has formally invited His Majesty, but it is extremely doubtful whether time will permit His Majesty to gratify His Highness' desire. It is also understood that Baroda and other Native States have sent in their invitations.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

Unable to Attend the German Service.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Feb. 11.

The Crown Prince's party, which will proceed to the Sunderbund will consist of General Graf Donha, Count Von Finckenstein, Lieutenant Widenham, Sir Harold Stuart, Mr. Botham, Collector of Backergunge and Mr. Kemp, District Superintendent of Police. Mr. Meyer, Agent to the Nawab of Dacca will also join the shooting party.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 12.

Considerable disappointment was evinced by the members of the German community by the fact that His Imperial Highness the Crown Prince was unable, owing to indisposition, to attend the German service held at St. Andrew's Church, Dalhousie Square, this morning. The service which was throughout in German was conducted by Rev. Dr. Nottrott of the Evengelical Lutheran Mission, Ranchi, while the sermon was preached by Rev. J. Stosch of the same mission. At the close of the service special prayers were offered for the safety of the Crown Prince and the Crown Princess during their tour in the East and for their safe return to Germany.

An address of welcome was to have been presented on behalf of the Lutheran Mission to the Crown Prince in the vestry, after the service was over, but in the absence of His Imperial Highness the address was made over to His Excellency General Count Zudohnau to be handed to His Highness. There was a large attendance of members of the German community which included Prince Henry of Reus. His Excellency General Count Zudohnau, Herr Schular, a number of ladies and a detachment of sailors from the Leipzig. The service was held at 8 30 a.m. and His Excellency Count Zudohnau A. D. C. attended on behalf of His Imperial Highness. The text at the sermon was from St. Mark, C. 4 Verse 5 "For he that hath, to him shall be given and he that hath not from him shall be taken, even that which he hath."

His Highness will deliver a lecture on the proposed Muslim University on the 25th instant in the local University hall and will receive an address from the Mahomedans.

The following Press Communique has been issued:—A small section of the Quarter Master General's Office has been opened at Delhi in charge of Major James, as Assistant-Quarter-Master-General. It is officially known as "Military Staff Office, Delhi Durbar" and it is located over the Delhi gate of the Fort.

FIRE AT DUNCAN ROAD.

At about half past ten o'clock last night a flame was seen by a pedestrian issuing from a godown situated at Duncan Road, where cotton ropes are manufactured, and belonging to A. A. Thanawalla & Co. The Babula Tank engine arrived immediately on the scene of the fire, and commenced working on the flames and put out the fire in a short time. The damage done by fire has not been ascertained, but the godown has been covered by insurance. The Byculla motor-engine also arrived on the spot, but it was not used.

Special provision will be made in the next Imperial Budget for educational purposes, and the details will be settled on Hon'ble Mr. Butler's return to Calcutta from Allahabad. Hitherto the practice has been to allot funds under different heads for educational grants, but the coming budget will probably disclose a separate head for education.

The Admiralty, we understand, has decided that H. M. S. "Redbreast," first class gunboat, which has been lying in Bombay for about two months after returning from service in the Persian Gulf, shall be sold. She will probably to put up to auction in about a fortnight. Her tonnage is 805, and she has seen about twenty years' service in the East, having been despatched to this station soon after her launch. A few months ago, her sister ship, the "Lapwing," was sold in Bombay, and realised Rs. 61,000.

THE TRANSVAAL INDIANS.

Lecture in Madras.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, Feb. 11.

Under the auspices of the Indian South African League, a public meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, Madras, to hear the lecture of Mr. John H. Cordes of Indian Opinion, a paper published in South Africa. Mr. G. A. Natesan, one of the Secretaries of the League, in introducing Mr. Cordes to the meeting observed that Mr. Cordes was one of the very few Englishmen in South Africa who have been identifying themselves with the cause of the Indians there.

Mr. Cordes, in the course of his lecture, referred briefly to the causes that led to the present situation in the Transvaal and gave a pointed account of the trials and difficulties to which the Indians in South Africa have been subjected. Mr. Cordes made an eloquent appeal to the Indians of the better classes, not coolies, to go to South Africa and join them in the struggle and enable them to win the battle which they had been fighting so well and so heroically and at such a tremendous self-sacrifice.

EDITOR'S APPEAL DISMISSED.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, Feb. 11.

The High Court has dismissed the appeal of C. Mahdo Prasad, editor of the "Khechri Samachar", Mirzapur, who had sued the district authorities of Mirzapur for damages for wrongful confinement, and malicious prosecution. Both lower courts had dismissed the case. The Chief Justice, in dismissing the appeal, condemned strongly one of the grounds of appeal which, his Lordship said, was nothing short of a charge against the learned Judges in the Courts below that owing to the fact of their being Government officers they had acted partially and not impartially between parties.

STATE SUBSIDISED NEWSPAPER.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, Feb. 12.

A Dacca correspondent says that the negotiations about the proposed State subsidised weekly newspaper under an approved editorship have practically terminated and the selection has fallen on Babu Abinash Chandra Gupta, M.A., B.L., Pleader, and the editor of the "Shiksha Samachar," a Dacca weekly of recent origin. He is moreover known as a writer of several vernacular text books for young boys. The terms of the agreement between him and the Government are believed to be very similar to those in West Bengal. It being likely that a substantial advance in money will shortly be made to him. The paper will probably be entitled "Biswa Barta" (the "World's News") and will be issued from April.

R. I. M. S. "NORTHBROOK."

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, Feb. 12.

The 2nd Battalion, King's Shropshire Light Infantry, lately stationed at Dum-Dum and Dinapore, landed at Madras yesterday morning from the R. I. M. S. "Northbrook" which arrived from the Midnapore docks. The Shropshires left for Secunderabad yesterday to relieve the Cheshires.

Just as the "Northbrook" arrived at Madras harbour one of the men died and was given a funeral by the Dorsets. Another man is said to be dangerously ill, while several others are only less so. The illness of these men is said to be due to cholera, while others put it down to tin poisoning.

The "Northbrook" will convey the Dorsetshire Regiment to Bombay on Tuesday morning whence they will take train for Poona to which place they have been transferred. The Leicestershire Regiment will take the place of the Dorsets in Madras; an advance party of the Leicestershire Regiment have already arrived.

The proposal to establish a Hindu University at Benares, which has been known to be maturing for sometime is likely to take shape soon. A number of leading men of the different provinces have promised their co-operation and support and a sum of over four lakhs of rupees has already been subscribed. Details of the scheme and the names of the members of the Committee, are to be published next week.

CATHEDRAL HIGH SCHOOLS

Prize-Giving.

Her Excellency Lady Clarke gave away prizes to the successful students of the Cathedral High Schools, at their annual exhibition, held in the Bombay Town Hall, on Saturday evening, when the Hon'ble Mr. R. A. Lamb, C. S. I, C. I.E., I.C.S., presided, and a large number of ladies and gentlemen interested in the Institution attended.

Mr. C M. Burham, Hon. Secretary, presented the reports of the Head Master of the Boys' School and the Sister-in-Charge of the Girls' School from which the following are the extracts:—

THE BOYS' SCHOOL.

As the results of the Matriculation and High School Examinations and also the report from the Government Inspector were not received till after the date when the prize-giving used to be held, and in consequence of the difficulty of securing the Town Hall in the month of December, the governing body decided to hold the annual meeting in February as it used to be held in years gone by. The report, therefore, will deal with a part of 1909 as well as with the past year.

There has been a steady increase in numbers. The dormitory has been full and boys have been refused admission. The results have been satisfactory, notwithstanding the fact that there was no First Assistant for the greater part of the year. There has been almost a complete renovation of the staff.

In November the Rev. R. P. Brinton, Diocesan Inspector, examined the school in religious knowledge. After remarking on the work of each class, he concluded as follows :—

"The Examination gave a satisfactory result. In the lower standards the knowledge of the Old Testament reached a high average. Equal attention should be paid to the New Testament. In the upper standards the knowledge and intelligence are very high. What is needed is greater definiteness."

The following is the report of Mr. Hesketh, Government Inspector :— " . . . It is hardly necessary to say that I am strongly in favour of the policy of bringing out teachers from England. It is expensive, but I see no other solution of the difficulty of providing masters for schools of this type. The boys of this school belong to the better class of Europeans and it is essential that the masters should be men of character and decent upbringing. The school is very carefully organised and care is taken that the work of each standard fits in with that of the whole school. Attention is paid to details, which are too often neglected, but are of importance if school is to be run smoothly. In English, the work is on excellent lines. The pupils read a large amount and very great attention is paid to composition from the lowest classes upward. The result is that the boys can usually write correct and idiomatic English. The work of Standard V (Miss Jones) was particularly good. Attention is paid also to handwriting. Here again, the work of Standard V was particularly good. The work in Arithmetic is satisfactory, concrete examples and problems being freely given. I found that considerable attention was paid to mental arithmetic, in which most of the classes acquitted themselves with credit. History and Geography are taught on good lines and in the highest classes the work was much above the average. The material in Standards IX and VIII was not so good as in previous years, when the school had several of the best boys in the Presidency. There are no signs of falling off in the lower classes, and the school maintained its reputation in the Scholarship Examination of 1910. There is an excellent tone in this school. The Head Master realises the importance of moulding the characters of the boys, and I have always found the boys of this school manly and straightforward. The value of the Head Master's influence cannot be everrated."

In the Matriculation Examination of 1909 all the three boys passed, two entered the Elphinstone College, where their conduct and progress have been satisfactory and they have since passed the Previous Examination. In the Matriculation Examination of 1910 one passed and has also joined the Elphinstone College. In the Government Scholarship and Certificate Examination of 1909, Nicholson was awarded a High School Scholarship and placed first in the general list. Hainsworth ma. gained a Middle School Scholarship and came second on the list and Hainsworth mi. gained a Primary Scholarship. Four of the nine scholarships fell to the school and again each division gained a scholarship. In the Cambridge Senior Examination, 1909, three boys passed, two gaining exemption from Pt. II of the Previous Examinatien of the Cambridge University and eight Passed the preliminary. In 1910 three boys passed the Junior Cambridge. In the Trinity College Musical Examinations, Mr. Faulkner has, as usual, gained many successes for the school. Gawthorne ma. passed with honours in the Intermediate Singing Examination, Gawthorne mi. the Junior, and ten boys the Preliminary, of whom Pruce mi. headed the list, gaining 95 per cent of the marks. Mr. Mistowski, the Examiner, was very pleased at boys entering for the Singing Examination. This was the first instance of his examining boys in singing during his tour in South Africa, Australia and India. The results of the Drawing Examinations were not satisfactory. The classes have now been reorganised under Mr. Cupper and Miss Taylor. I would call attention to the High School and Certificate Examination. It is now, as far as Europeans are concerned, the only examination, except the Cambridge Senior, recognized for entrance into Government service. Matriculation will no longer avail for that purpose. The examination is higher than Matriculation, both in the matter of the minimum to pass and in the nature of the papers set.

The sports have been under the supervision of Mr. Cupper. Football has been played with enthusiasm, What is especially aimed at is that as many as possible should play and not that a special team should be coached to the neglect of the others. In the Rovers' Junior Football Tournament we reached the semi-final round with a team composed wholly of school boys. Cricket has been played in the same spirit. Founders Day was celebrated with sports on the maidan and a dance and entertainment at the school-house at night. We have to thank Messrs. Glazebrook, Armstrong, McCausland, Laws, King, Binks, Farham, Sawtell, Faulkner and Dubash for their kindness in offering prizes for the various competitions.

GIRLS' SCHOOL.

The number on the rolls in December 1910 was 134. Three of the five girls presented for the Bombay Matriculation in 1909, Dorothy Conyers' Ivy Netscher and Rachel Mathalone, passed. Two of the three presented in 1910, Tehmina Davar and Mozelle Perry, were also successful. Both of these girls have entered the Elphinstone College. Tehmina Davar stands second of all the girls who have passed the Matriculation in 1910. Isabel D'Gama, an 'Old Girl,' passed the Previous Examination of Bombay University, and has since entered the Grant Medical College. The results of the Cambridge Local Examinations were on the whole satisfactory. In the Senior Examination one pupil was presented and passed—Dorothy Owen. In the Junior, three were presented, and two, Aimai Rustomji and Evelyn D'Souza, passed. In the Preliminary, four were presented and two passed—Beryl Conyers and Ellen Bell. Eight pupils were presented by Mr. Edger Faulkner for the Trinity College Examinations in music and singing, and passed with excellent results. Fourteen girls obtained certificates in the School of Art Examinations, August last. The results in the 2nd and 3rd grades were highly satisfactory. This is the first year in which the school entered for the third grade—all passed. The Rev. R. P. Brinton examined the school in religious knowledge, and reports:—"Taken as a whole the Examination gave very satisfactory results. The teaching has evidently interested as well as impressed the children. What seems especially needed now is greater definiteness and in standards 3, 4 and 5 fuller grasp of the New Testament teaching." The Inspector of European schools reports on his inspection held in February 1910:—"There is an excellent tone in this school. I have always had a high opinion of this school and I have every confidence in its future." Miss Corkery, Inspectress of European schools, paid her annual visit this year, November 22nd, and reports:—"The English studies throughout the school are very satisfactory. The senior classes take the same English course, i.e., Text-books specified by the Cambridge Local Examination Committee, and are thus introduced to some good literature. All the girls from the fourth standard upwards are members of the school library, the teachers are therefore able in a great way to direct their general reading. The result in Mathematics were good, the Geometry course well devised. An advance has been made in needle-work, as most of the garments were cut out by the girls themselves and all but the younger ones were able to set the work under direction. The Infant School is well managed; work seems to be made as attractive as play to the little ones, and there were no weary faces to be seen amongst them, although they were detained beyond the usual school hours. The good work done during the year fully entitles the school to an enhanced grant; the management is all that can be desired and the tone excellent." Mrs. Andrews and Miss Sawtell very kindly examined the needlework of the school. They report:—"The work showed careful and painstaking effort on the part of the children and teachers. The drill and calisthenics are still under the able management of Mrs. Jenkyns. A Tennis Court on the school premises is a much-felt want. The girls have set to work energetically to collect funds for this.

An entertainment given in September and private subscriptions have realised Rs. 350. Rs. 300 more must be collected before the work can be put in hand. A Games Club was also organised in December. It is open to 'Old Girls.'

Her Excellency gave away prizes to the successful pupils, addressing them individually a few encouraging words.

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

The Hon. Mr. Lamb, addressing the meeting, said:—Ladies and Gentlemen,—On the part of her Excellency Lady Clarke, and on my own, I wish to say that it has been a great pleasure to be present this evening and distribute the prizes, and to preside, respectively, to read the reports of the progress of the scools, and to look forward to the interesting programme which the children will go through. Their performance will, I feel sure, bear witness to the excellent instruction given in the schools in music and singing, in physical drill and in the use of English; and the reports tell of my notable successes on which the governing body and the staff of the schools, not less than the successful students, are to be congratulated. There is indeed only one point on which a note is struck indicating a need for improvement. The Head Master of the Boys' High School complains that masters and pupils suffer from a surfeit of examinations. He indicates that the former present the latter, at about the same season in each year, for no less than five examinations. I am very strongly inclined to agree with the Head Master. The multiplication of examinations is greatly to be deprecated; for useful, or unavoidably necessary, as an examination may be for the purpose of testing the progress of pupils in the subjects taught and for ascertaining so far as may be the extent of their acquisition of knowledge, it is impossible—as the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop pointed out in the paper on the "Religious Basis of Moral Education," which he read at the Conference last year on Moral Instruction—it is impossible to examine in the best and most vital aspects of any subject which the masters teach in the schools. Too many examinations tend to draw attention away from those best and most vital aspects and to concentrate it on masters which are indeed important but which do not lie at the heart of sound education. The fact of which the report complains seems to me therefore a real evil for which it would be desirable that a remedy should be devised. This is not the occasion for discussing the method and manner of providing a remedy; it must suffice to express the hope that means may be found for affording relief from an excess of formal examinations. The schools, however, do so well in these trying experiences that they ought not perhaps to complain too loudly of the number of them, provided always that those more vital aspects of the scheme of education are not—and I feel certain that they are not—overshadowed or neglected. Each examination appears to afford the schools only an additional opportunity for securing a success; and the list of High School achievements is really remarkable. It is set forth in the report that in 1909 each division of the school was successful, out of nine scholarships competed for by all the schools in the Presidency, the Cathedral High School secured three. That is a high proportion, but in 1910 the school went one better, and four scholarships out of nine came to this one school. It is a big thing for one school to carry off only a fraction under one half of the total scholarships competed for. It would take too long—and the time is getting late—to dwell on the other highly creditable examination results set out in the reports both of the Girls' Schools and the Boys': but I cannot refrain from remarking on one other most satisfactory feature in both reports; the definite finding recorded by the Government Inspector that there is an excellent tone in each school. I take this as a clear indication that the moral education of the children is thoroughly successful. The schools enjoy the advantage of freedom from doubt as to how moral education should be conducted. Moral instruction, which last year's Conference discussed, is one thing, and in India a very difficult thing, about which much has been and doubtless much more will be written and said; but moral education, which is much more than mere instruction, is a still more difficult problem; and the parents and guardians of the children who attend, and, of those who will hereafter attend the schools are indeed fortunate in having the assurance that the governing body and the staff have found the way to solve the problem. Based on the Christian religion, conducted on a settled system, and applied by true teacher, the moral education imparted in these schools turn out, the Inspector tells us, manly and straightforward boys and gives every confidence for the future of the Girls' School. In thus forming the character of the coming generation the school render a very valuable service to the State; for in our position in India I do not know of anything more vitally important to us under the conditions that are shaping themselves than the possessions by all Englishmen and women in this country of a really sound and true moral character. (Hear, hear). The governing body are to be congratulated on having for the conduct of the Girls' School the service of the Sisters of the All Saints Community, and at the head of the Boys' School a master of whom no less than 15 years ago the then Arch-Deacon wrote that he had by his splendid work and devoted energy simply made the school what it is and brought it up close to the standard of English public schools. I am happy to have had this opportunity of associating myself, in however small a way with work so well organized and so thoroughly well conducted as that which is being done in these schools. And I would ask you to join me in tendering our very hearty thanks to H. E. Lady Clarke for her great kindness in coming here and giving away the prizes this evening. (Applause). Show your appreciation, boys and girls, by three cheers for Her Excellency.

An excellennt programme of misic and songs was creditably gone through by the pupils. At the conclusion of the programme three cheers were heartily given by the children for Her Excellency Lady Clarke and the interesting proceedings terminated.

SPORTING NEWS.

RACING.

Bombay Big Meeting.

THE GRAND WESTERN HANDICAP.

Saturday was one of the two days during the Bombay Big Meeting on which what may be termed "classic" races are run, and an exceedingly large concourse of spectators assembled at Mahaluxmi to witness the results of these and other events. In only one case did the favourite in the betting win, and backers without inside knowledge cannot be said to have had a prosperous day. The weather conditions enhanced the afternoon's sport, and the large number of ladies among the spectators testified to the fact that a race-meeting in India is not only a rendezvous for sportsmen but also partakes of the nature of a garden party. The lawn, on which the band of the G. I. P. Railway Volunteers played at intervals during the afternoon, was well-covered with people, the brightness of the ladies' dresses showing up against the more sombre hues of the clothing of the men. It was interesting to notice that a cinematographic operator was obtaining films of the racing, the ring and the grandstand, and, no doubt, those who did not attend on Saturday will be able to see the afternoon's events reproduced on the screen in Bombay. Every stand in the betting ring was filled and the bookmakers must have found the day profitable. In the first race, odds to the extent of 80 and 60 against were being laid about Dawood Beg and Brazee in some quarters and these are prices seldom seen in Bombay. The most upsetting event of the day, from the punters' point of view, was the victory of Punt over the favourite Soult Line. Evans judged his race cleverly and won by a neck. Zainulmulook and Racer were both strongly supported for the Bombay Derby, the longest race of the Bombay season, and Precious was deserted by the public only being brought down from "fives" to "threes" towards the close of the betting. The start for the Bombay Derby, which is made in front of the grandstand, was, as usual, an event of interest to the spectators, and Valens refused for a time to face the gate, while Zainulmulook and Young Salanic also gave trouble. Precious, however, as the result of vast experience, stoically awaited the going up of the ropes. Braganza ran a strong race for the whole of the distance, until, in the straight, Mr. R.R.S's indomitable Arab beat Butters's mount by three-quarters of a length, the win evoking cheers from the onlookers. Solution's win in the Importers' Handicap was as unexpected an event as the defeat of Soult Line, and Bright Metal failed totally to justify his supporters. Evans and Brown rode two winners, the other winning honours of the day being carried off by Fergusson, Hoyt and Whalley. On Solution's win, the totalisator paid out the large dividend of Rs. 226-8.

Steward was at once made favourite for the Melton plate, the next in demand being Singer and Young Majub, support being divided between the two. In the race, the three named were all placed, Young Majub beating the favourite by half a length. The Stewards' Purse supplied the winning favourite of the day, Leo Grand being heavily supported with Evening Herald and Cracker next in demand. The race was a speculative one as regards place betting, Evening Herald, Cracker, Naughty Boy, and Kok, all being backed. Notwithstanding the fact that Soult Line opened in the betting at "odds-on" in the Malabar Hill Plate and remained at the same terms throughout, the race was another example of the frequent instance of a certainty losing, and Evans on Punt came up in the straight and beat Soult Line with Hoyt up. In the Bombay Derby, Zainulmulook was made favourite, but the backers were divided in their opinions and much support was given to Racer and Young Salanic. Precious was little sought after and five to one could be obtained about him. Braganza ran well, but was unable to withstand the final run of the veteran stayer. As regards betting, the Grand Western Handicap was an open event, Bull Dog, Picturesque and Beau Vive all being assiduously backed. Picturesque, however, was generally considered to be the likely winner. Beau Vive lead out and won, Hilarity beating Picturesque for second place. Solution, in the Importers' Handicap, scored the outside win of the day, Bright Metal as favourite, with Metal Boy next in demand, failing to get a place. Red Cell was well backed for a place and came second to Evans's mount, Solution winning easily. The Tom Le Measurier place was considered to rest between Lookman and Tachreet, and the betting favoured Tachreet by half a point. Gafal was supported as a likely outsider and much place money went on Tofic Pasha and Guinea Mohur. Tofic Pasha also was backed to win through the fact of his three stable companions having scratched, but Mr. A. S. Oomer's candidate only came into third place, Gafal running Lookman close in the straight and being placed second only by a neck.

The following are the detailed results:—

THE MELTON PLATE.—Distance—6 furlongs. 3-10 p.m.

Messrs D S Mehta and A R Dakeel's Young Majub, 8st 9lbs.....Evans 1
Mr R R S' Steward, 8st 12lbs.....Brown 2
Mr Ali bin Talib's Singer, 8st 9lbs.....Whalley 3

ALSO RAN:—Sayel, 8st 12lbs; Brazee, 8st 12lbs; Dawood Beg, 8st 12lbs; Once More, 8st 6lbs; Ortolo, 8st; Timon, 7st 11lbs; Burg, 7st 8lbs; Chaman, 7st 3lbs; Grequa, 7st 3lbs.

BETTING:—7 to 4 on Steward, 4 to 1 against Young Majub and Singer, 10's and longer odds the rest.

THE TOTALISATOR paid Rs. 53 for the win and Rs. 11-8, Rs. 10-8 and Rs. 11-8 for places.

THE RACE:—Young Majub took the lead soon after the start, followed by Brazee. At the bend Singer came up into second place, and, in the straight, Young Majub won, Steward beating Singer for second place. ## MADRAS FOOTBALL TOURNAMENT.

Leicesters Win the Trophy.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, FEB. 12.

The final in the Madras Football Tournament was played last evening between the Leicesters from Belgaum and the Oxford and Bucks from Wellington. The Leicesters, who were the favourites, played a good combined game and kept the opposition goal-keeper busy, and just before half-time scored a goal, adding a second goal early in the second half. The Oxfords played a plucky game but were outclassed at every point. The game was an interesting one, resulting in a win for the Leicesters by two goals to nil.

The Hon'ble Sir Ralph Benson in requesting Mrs. Twigg, the wife of the Hon'ble Mr. J. Twigg to give away the prizes congratulated the winners on their success but regretted that the trophy was going out of Madras the Dorsets being previous holders and he hoped that next year they would bring back the trophy. He was also glad to notice the entry of a new club namely, the Catholic Young Men's Society who sportingly entered a team and though defeated he hoped they would give a better account of themselves hereafter. Mrs. Twigg then handed over the trophy to the Captain of the winning team and presented a silver cup to each of the winners, amid loud applause. Cheers were then called for Mr. Twigg, the winners, and losers, after which the crowd dispersed.

YACHTING IN BOMBAY.

[BY RUDDER.]

For the first time this season the wind on Saturday met with no complaints; the average strength for the afternoon being fresh, or about 16 miles per hour—As this is the last day's racing before the Regatta, we trust the same variety will be available next week. Two Karachi tomtits have arrived per s. s. "Culna" being well cared for by the B. I.; they are now at Butcher Island for paint, etc. prior to the Regatta, their owners being expected by Saturday's mail.

We publish herewith the programme, in detail, for the Annual Regatta but regret to hear the motor boat race is off—through lack of entries—which is surprising in a place of such maritime importance as Bombay.

SATURDAY'S RACES.

"A" class, in spite of the restricted line due to the presence of the little "Palinurius" at her moorings, made a good start. Melody with only one head sail set and the rest in storps made a weary start and was immediately passed by Eileen with all sail set going like a steam engine, the full sail tactics of the latter establishing her lead at once, which position she maintained throughout. On the reach to Red Channel Buoy, W.N.W. of Butcher Island, Turquoise went well and would have rounded this mark 2nd if she had'nt got hung up on two fishing buoys within a few cable's lengths of the mark. She was promptly gybed, however, clear of the obstruction in a very smart fashion and rounded the buoy with the proverbial coat of paint between her and it.

Mahshuka broke out her spinnaker on the way to Tucker Beacon and rounded this mark second. A reach back to Committee vessel and then distance to mark Buoy, found Eileen sailing well up to her old Clyde form, some years ago, and enabled her to finish an easy first.

Mahshuka seemed to be over-pinched on the beat to Commttee Vessel from Mark Buoy and failed to get placed.

Turquoise had rather ill luck in finishing before a stiffer breeze had set in from the W.N.W. as she is essentially our stiff weather boat.

'B" class.—Trixie got left at the start being, so we are told, unfortunate with her stop watch, which true to its name did stop.

Erin cleverly out-manœuvred Lylie prior to the rounding of Tucker Beacon and so slipped by her; Trixie seized this opportunity and went through her lee, eventually rounding the mark twenty seconds astern of Erin. Antelope picked up a lot in the reach to Mark Buoy.

In the dead beat from this mark to the Committee Vessel, Erin, Lylie and Antelope went west, Trixie, however, in a contemplating mood sailing straight up harbour towards the freshening breeze from the north and against the slack of the tide. Her tactics proved successful as she rounded the Committee Vessel one and a half minutes ahead of Lylie, the second boat; under balloon canvass this eminently corinthian class flew away for north Karanja, or rather into the black bank of Bombay smoke which was obscuring it. We give Tata's new electric scheme our most cordial and disinterested hopes for its success.

Erin sailing valiantly and made up a lot of her lee way. Trixie, however, sailed well up to her reputation and eventually secured the gun, leading Lylie by some forty seconds.

Erin obtained first prize on handicap with Trixie as second.

Course No. 55 From Committee Vessel to Tucker Beacon round Mark Buoy both to Starboard—Committee Vessel—North Karanja Port to Committee Vessel. Wind W N W. Strength fresh. Time-limit—7 p. m. 1st Prize won by Erin. Trixie saves Entrance Fee.

"C" class were racing in the bi-monthly handicap; their start was rather feeble for our wee boat class, but Mavourneen contrived to lead cleverly with spinnaker sitting well on the port bow.

The class fliers, all except Clutha who was having a day off, were well in the van, lead by Mavourneen as far as Mark Buoy, when Swallow, with no mean sailor at her tiller, stole away up harbour after Trixie, the rest tried beating towards Sunk Rock. Swallow gained tremendously and lead Maud at Committee Vessel, who had passed Mavourneen, by about two minutes. Clutha with her sister "C" lay next, then Lapwing, the boat of recent high handicaps, with Curlew, Pearl Anna and Valkyrie bringing up the rear—Marie Luise got tired and gave up.

Clutha with stern intent worked her way into second place in the distance to Mark Buoy and back, whilst Maud and Mavourneen finished very close.

Swallow was sailed splendidly and secured her first gun of the season in fine style, lying well over to a fresh W. N. W. breeze and looking very bonnie!

"Noisette" is the new Karachi scratch tomtit owned by the R. F. A. and should stretch our local fliers considerable in the forthcoming regatta!

CHARLES THORNTON RENNIE SCOVELL.

20TH NOVEMBER, 1910.

His task is o'er, for God thought fit to call
The labourer from his toil upon this Earth.
And should the Vineyard toilers dare dispute
The wisdom of their Lord, to utter "nay"
To His Supremacy? "Ye shall receive Whate'er is right"—He said—and so He gave
His servant, who had worked so short a time,
His guerdon—his reward of perfect rest
And freedom from the bondage of this world.
"I choose!—I call! and will do with Mine own
Whate'er I will—for I the Lord am good!
This servant has found favour in My sight,
And in My gracious keeping he is now,
Preparing for a start in fuller life—
Extended knowledge in a wider realm—
A world of Perfect Bliss and Love Divine!"

And we are sorrowing! But God is good!
And He will wipe the tear from ev'ry eye.

Beloved, we could but praise for what thou wast;
We could but like for that which thou wast not.
And we are grieving, for we know our loss,
And crave again the one gone from our midst—
One of the kindest, gentlest of God's sons;
One of true Nature's truest gentlemen;
All love and sympathy and tenderness;
And strong withal, and full of force and pow'r;
And known for noble deeds and bravery.
Fearless to face an ill—yet with no foes;
One who had gained a kindly word from all—
Without an enemy—all wished him well
And hailed him noble husband, father, friend,
And brother to a large humanity.
Lowly in mind, and bashful to a fault,
Simple, and heedless of the praise of men;
And secret in his deeds of good to all—
His left hand knew not what his right hand did—
So truly great, nought could belittle him;
So lowly minded, meekness made him great
In all men's eyes—who loved and honoured him—
Who now are mourning for their bitter loss!
Oh, may the helpmate of his married life—
His shortened life—through grace be comforted;
Shielded and cherished by a Love Divine,
Which merges lesser in a greater love;
As earthly daylight in the blaze of Heav'n!
Or candle-glare, eclipsed by God's bright sun!
And may the little ones, he had to leave,
So all unconscious, now, of their great loss,
Grow up to know and love and honour him
In mem'ry's sweetest ways, and ever strive
To copy the example that he left;
To follow in the footsteps of their sire;
To walk the one straight path that leads to God,
With head erect and fervent gaze above,
Perchance, some special power may be giv'n—
Some virtue, to the one who's gone before,
To be a blessed messenger—a guide—
A spirit-breath to breathe a word divine,
Direct from God to hearts that may have need
Of inward teaching, Yes! perchance, he may
Bring heav'nly food to feed the hungry soul;
Manna to nourish in this wilderness;
And water from the glist'ning Stream of Life,
To cool parched lips of this World's fierce desire,
So may the Loved One's work, begun on Earth,
Be doubly glorified, extended, blest!

The great Sea called him—"Come, oh, come to me!"
And in its voice he heard the voice of God—
And in its sight he saw the smile of God—
In ocean's roar he learnt the pow'r of God—
And when he heard the summons, he obeyed,
He fell upon the bosom of God's Love!
No chance, misfortune, bore him on those waves
Which washed him to the very Throne of God!

BOMBAY HUNT.

The meet yesterday morning was at the Barracks by invitation, and a fairly [illegible] and representative field assembled there. There were several ladies present including [illegible] Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. Priestley, [illegible] Graham, Mrs. Toogood, Mrs. Kirby, [illegible] Kirby and Miss Hill. The temperature was a good deal hotter than it has been for some time and there appeared to be very little dew indeed as was evidenced by the amount of dust disturbed by hounds and horses on the way to the Barracks. Altogether the conditions did not strike one as being very favorable for hunting, although it is impossible to tell from climatic conditions whether that most tricky and elusive of all things, scent, is going to be good or not. A certain man called Markham who wrote in the seventeenth century describes the sport of fox-hunting as follows:—Hunting is a curious search or conquest of one beast over another, pursued by a natural instinct of enmity, and accomplished by the diversities and distinctions of smells only, wherein nature equally dividing her cunning giveth both to the offender and offended strange knowledge both of offence and safety. Perhaps this is not quite the way in which one would describe hunting oneself, but it seems to be worth quoting as it brings out the point that hunting is "accomplished by the diversities and distinctions of smells only", so that it is an impossible thing to have a good fox-hunt on a bad scenting morning. His scent and scent only that enables a hound to follow the line of a jackal, but from what portion of the frame it emanates, whether it sometimes lies on the ground or rises a few inches about it, and what are the atmospheric conditions most favorable to its development seem to be vexed questions as far from accurate solution as are those of squaring the circle or any other apparent impossibility that one can put a name to. This much is certain that hounds will, on really good scenting days, carry as good a head and run as unerringly fifty yards down wind of the line as they can when following in the actual track, showing that scent can be diffused over a very considerable space of ground.

To turn from this digression to yesterday's hunt, as soon as it was light enough hounds were taken to draw the bushy cover near the Colena markets gardens, about half a mile from the Barracks, and almost immediately they burst away on a line in a manner that lead one to expect a really good thing. However hounds were very soon brought to their noses and after the first minute they were never running at all freely as there was apparently little or no scent. Moreover our quarry was, to quote a man called Bleme who was a contemporary of the above quoted Markham, "a very melancholy beast and therefore fearful and crafty." In this run we never seemed to be running in the same direction for two minutes together and for some time we did not seem to be running at all. We went up and down, and round and round till we were nearly dizzy, and finally we lost our jack on the banks of Mahim creek. It speaks volumes for the hounds and for the way they were hunted that we got as far as we did as the number of twists was tremendous and the amount of scent was nil, also our jackal was a melancholy one. After trying to pick up the line again, for some few minutes or so, hounds were taken to draw elsewhere and a jackal was soon found in the vicinity of Sahar. This jackal, although not very bright, was considerably less melancholy than our first and we had quite a nice gallop after him, chiefly over the Melon ground, to the Andheri Road. We galloped down this road for some hundreds of yards with the jack not twenty yards in front of the leading hound and it looked very much as if he would be killed there and then, but he saved his brush by turning sharp left handed into the market gardens and was never seen again. During the second run there had appeared to be a certain amount of scent, but it came to an end absolutely at the backwater and although the jack had been viewed across the dam by some coolies, hounds were unable to own to him although cast right across the place where he had been viewed.

BOXING TOURNAMENTS.

Allahabad.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALLAHABAD, FEB. 11.

The semi-final stage was reached in each of the competitions for the Locke Elliot Belts at the Exhibition Theatre on Friday night, and some excellent contests were witnessed. In the middle weights, Private Wanless of the Gordon Highlanders, a fancied candidate, was beaten by Private O'Dea of the Connaught Rangers after a very closely and hardly contested bout. Excellent form was also shown by both Corporal Chivers of the Essex Regiment, a belt holder, and Private Anderson of the 3rd Middlesex Regiment. Chivers qualified for the final, but had to struggle hard for his victory Anderson shaping well and putting up a splendid fight.

In the bantam weights, Sergeant Daniels, Dorsetshire Regiment, again showed good form. Three special contests, one of four rounds two of six rounds' duration, formed part of the programme.

ALLAHABAD, FEB. 12.

The Boxing Tournament for the Locke-Elliot Belts concluded at the Exhibition Theatre on Saturday night when the finals of the various competitions were interspersed with special contests. In the competition for the finals the contests were of four rounds, and in every case, a keen contest took place.

The quality of the boxing in the feather-weights final was not of a high standard and was won by Private Wallace of the Connaughts. In the other three contests there was some splendid fighting. Private Slay of the 1st Middlesex Regiment won the light-weights from Private O'Dea of the Connaught Rangers. He showed clever footwork and put up a sound defence whilst being both a straight and resourceful hitter. In the middle-weights, Private Grant of the Seaforth Highlanders offered a stout resistance to Corporal Chivers of the Essex Regiment, but the latter was slightly the cleverer boxer and won. Sergeant Daniels of the Dorsetshire Regiment had been fancied for the bantam-weights, but he met defeat at the hands of Private McIvan of the Black Watch. At the conclusion, Colonel Somerset presented the belts and other prizes to the successful competitors.

Heavy Weights (Semi final) Pte. Knight (Dorsets) beat Drummer Moore (Dorsets).

Feather Weights (Semi final) Lce. Corpl. Salter (Dorsets) beat Pte. Golden (Dorsets).

RACQUETS TOURNAMENT.

OPEN SINGLES:—C. A. Ecles beat J. B. Macbeth, 3 games to 0.

The Poona man's service proved too much for Macbeth in the first game and he ran to 11-0, Macbeth put on 7 but Ecles got in again and won eventually 15-7. The second game was much the same, Ecles leading 9-0 and winnining 15-9. Macbeth played better in the last game and at 14-10 looked a winner, but lot his opponent in who drew level and won 17-16.

MARKERS' SINGLES:—Padamji (Poona) beat Hormasji (Bombay), 3-1.

Padamji led throughout the first game and the score was called 14-6 when Hormasji put him out and made 4, game being called 15-10. Padamji won the second game, also 15-7, but in the third, Hormasji found his form and ran to 6-0. Padamji drew up to 11 all and 12-11, but the Bombay man won 15-12. Padamji had the best of the last game all through and won 15-9, but Hormasji played for better than the score leads one to suppose.

Maneckji (Bombay) beat Jehangir (Jodhpur) 3-1.

The left-hander started confidently and won the first two games easily, 15-9 and 15-2, in the latter actually running to 14 0 in 2 hands. In the third, Jehangir improved and taking the lead at 7 all won 15-9. This woke up Maneckji who won the fourth game, 15-3. Jehangir was not in form having been seedy for some time, but Maneckji's was a very fine performance, characterised alike by very hard hitting and accurate placing and he should go near to winning the event.

SAHIBS' AND MARKERS' DOUBLES.

W L Michael / Padamji } beat { Maj J G Greig / P M D Sanderson 3-2

A gallant struggle! There was little to choose between the pairs, but Michael was on the top of his form and Sanderson well below his and that turned the scale. The first game was set 13 all and Michael won 18-15. Greig was mainly responsible for the second game which he and Sanderson took easily 15 2 (1 all). A dingdong struggle marked by brilliant play and long rallies gave the third to Michael and the professional at 15-11. Geig's service accounted for 8 and Sanderson's for 3 aces in the next game, 11 0. Mechael responded with 9 and his partner with a single and 10-11 was called. The others, however, drew away and won 15-10 (2 all). The deciding game was brilliant and till the end was anybody's game. Eventually Michael and the professional won 15-12 and the match by 3 games to 2.

BY THE WAY.

ABOUT GAS.

Some interesting figures are again given in "The Gas World Year-Book," the 1911 edition of which has just been issued. There are 1,255 gas undertakings in England, 263 in Scotland, 110 in Ireland, 153 in Australasia, 52 in Canada, and 15 in other British possessions. The number of gas undertakings under municipal ownership forms a comparatively small part of the total in the United Kingdom. Thus in England there are 1,029 gasworks owned by companies and only 226 by local authorities, in Scotland 206 against 57, and in Ireland 85 against 25. The annual make of gas in England, Scotland and Ireland is given as 199,083,733,000 cubic feet (as compared with 194,464,593,000 in the previous year), and this was distributed amongst 6,501,273 customers.

LONDON CONSUMERS.

Within the London postal district there are 1,280,020 consumers, and they are supplied with 48,660,606,000 cubic feet of gas. In this area, extending from Tottenham on the north to Beckenham on the south, and from Stratford on the east to Putney on the west, there is produced nearly 25 per cent. of the output of gas of the whole kingdom, supplying 19 per cent. of the gas consumers. The largest of the London companies, indeed, the largest in the world—the Gas Light and Coke Company—makes 26,679,783,000 cubic feet of gas in the year and charges 2s. 7d. per thousand cubic feet, while some of the smaller companies charge a good deal less, notably the South Metropolitan Company, who charge 2s. 2d., and the Wandsworth Company, whose charge is only 1s. 10d.

OTHER DETAILS.

The number of gas consumers in the United Kingdom has increased in the year from 6,388,511 to 6,501,273 Gas undertakings have two classes of customers—those who pay their bills quarterly and those who pay as they go, by means of penny-in-the-slot meters. New consumers come largely under the latter class, which has increased during the year from 2,867,466 to 3,084,503, or at the rate of over 7 per cent. Gas cooking stoves seen to grow steadily in public favour. The number now in use is given as 2,747,671, as against 2,575,511 last year—an increase of 6.7 per cent. The statistics show that there are 754,930 street gas lamps in the kingdom, of which nearly 82 per cent. are fitted with incandescent burners and mantles, as compared with 80 per cent. in the previous year.

MONKS OF SCIENCE.

The first of the Astronomer-Royal course of lectures at the Royal Institution dealt with the life led and the work done by the secluded band of scientists at the "monastic" observatory at Mount Wilson, in Southern California. Of the instruments in the observatory, the most advanced and the most marvellous are the vertical cœlostat telescopes. These are contained in skeleton steel towers, on 65ft. and the other 150ft. high. The telescopic image of the sun is reflected on to a large placed near the top of the tower, which, in its turn thrown the image on to a horizontal plane a few feet from the ground. The dwellers on Mount Wilson are bothered be very little cloud and wind, and the air at an altitude of 6,000ft. is exceedingly dry. The conditions for those who can stand the rarefied atmosphere are pleasant and romantic—romantic in their lonely splendour and in their suitability for men on one heavily body spending their lives in studying another.

THE WOODLANDERS.

The "Hamburger Zeitung" is convinced that "the country walk for its own sake is a German discovery" and after due allowance for the first blaze of popular resentment, it may be conceded that the "Hamburger Zeitung" has a case, though an overstated one. It is, of course, absurd to claim that any nation has discovered the country walk. Adam discovered it, Esau discovered it, whilst a little later Wordsworth. Cowper, and Jefferies all got within reasonable distance of a like discovery. Still, the argument of our German contemporary is, of course not that no Englishman cares for country walks but that Englishmen on the whole do not. "The Englishman's ideal is a park the German's a wood, and the Frenchman loves his boulevard." When denial, hot and vigorous, rises to one's lips one remembers with horrible distinctness the tailor's label, "For park or promenade. But it is always difficult to gauge the ideals of the mean sensual man. The urbanisation of the inhabitants of England is proceeding so rapidly that there are probably grounds to-day for saying that, like the Frenchman, the Englishman's native heath is the paving stone. German students still buy knapsacks, still execute walking tours more than their English contemporaries and we envy them this sylvan virtue. German critics however, should note that England is small and overbuilt, and that the parks and grounds of large rural estates are valued because they secure a truer isolation than the unfenced land outside.

SOUTHWARK'S LOSS.

It is possible that the appointment of Dr. Talbot to the See of Winchester will not please the whole of the diocese. Those who set much store by the differences between High and Low Church may regret that Dr. Ryle is to be succeeded by a man who is at the opposite pole of thought. There is, however, far less difference between the new Bishop and Dr. Ryle's predecessor, Dr. Randall Davidson. But all considerations of this sort should be swallowed up in gratitude at securing the services of a man who has worked so strenuously in the cause of sound education at Keble, Leeds, and in Southwark. It will be hard to fill his place in the great bishopric of South London. To a marked degree he has succeeded in securing the goodwill of all classes, from the costermonger to the stockbroker. Of simple life and transparent honesty, he has fulfilled the noble ideal set up by Chaucer: "First he wrought, and afterward he taught. Cristes lore, and his Apostles twelve. He taught, but first he folwed it himselve."

FRENCH ARMY DEFAULTERS.

"La France Militaire" states (according to a "Central News" message from Paris) that during the year 1910 there were 13,500 deserters from the military forces in France, and 53,000 defaulters returned, this being an increase of 500 deserters and 3,000 defaulters on the previous year.

LORD SWAYTHLING'S APOSTLE SPOONS.

In addition to many valuable pieces of old silver-plate, the late Lord Swaythling possessed a remarkably fine set of early Apostle spoons. Six of them date from 1524, six from 1553. This set was bought about eighteen years ago for £400, when it was said to have been that presented by Charles II. to Lady Clayton.

LEICESTER POLICE TO HAVE AUTOMATIC PISTOLS.

The Leicester Watch Committee have decided that a number of automatic pistols shall be provided for the use of the borough police in cases of grave urgency. Detectives and special men will undergo a course of instruction until a certain standard of efficiency with the weapon is attained. Rigid regulations will be enforced, and the rules state that under no circumstances will the killing of another exonerate the slayer unless he be in immediate and obvious danger of instant death or serious harm.

VALUABLE CORONATION GIFT TO ROCHDALE.

At a meeting of the Rochdale Art Gallery Committee it was stated that Mr. Robert Taylor Heape had presented thirty valuable paintings to the town as a coronation gift. During the last few years Mr. Heape has made several gifts of pictures to the town, and this collection brings his total gift of pictures, to eighty, which constitutes two-thirds of the permanent collection. The pictures, many of which are large canvasses by artists of repute, are valued at well over £5,000, and have been insured for that amount.

THE LADIES' CORNER.

ORDERS FOR WOMEN.

The women who bemoan what they are pleased to term their insignificant place in the world's affairs, writes a correspondent in the "Pall Mall Gazette," would regard the fact that for every Order bestowed on a woman there are over forty awarded to members of the sterner sex, as a typical instance of man's injustice. Nevertheless, without claiming to belong to the league of oppressed womanhood, it is surprising, considering the wonderful way in which women are coming to the fore and distinguishing themselves in learning, art, science, and literature, that men have not seen fit to institute a few more honours in their favour. Of course, there are cynics who have declared that the conferring of decorations on women would be inadvisable, but all broadminded people know that there can be no adequate reason for not awarding honour where honour is due; and women who have accomplished something that will make their name famous to posterity, deserve to be honoured as well as their male companions.

THE ROYAL ORDER OF VICTORIA AND ALBERT.

Curiously enough, that was impossible by the English Court until Queen Victoria came to the throne. During her reign, which will always be noted for the wonderful advance made by women in the various professions, she established several Orders, including the Royal Order of Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, the Royal Red Cross, and the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. The Royal Order of Victoria and Albert was instituted by the late Queen in February, 1862. It is divided into four sections, the first two being reserved to Queens, Empresses, and Royalties of the first rank, while the last two are conferred upon ladies of high distinction. The colour of the ribbon of the Order is white. To commemorate her adoption of the title of Empress of India, Queen Victoria established the Imperial Order of the Crown of India. This Order for women is bestowed upon Royalities, natives of India of high rank, and wives, sisters, cousins, and aunts of the Governor-General and other high officials. The ribbon of the Order is light blue with a white edging, and its members number about a hundred.

THE ROYAL RED CROSS.

The Order, however, which is, perhaps, the most famous and coveted is that of the Royal Red Cross. No less than sixty-nine nurses in the Boer War were decorated with this distinguished Order. It was on St. George's Day, 1883, that the Royal Red Cross was instituted, and it is awarded to foreign as well as British subjects "for zeal and devotion in providing for and nursing sick and wounded soldiers, sailors and others with the army in the field, on board ship, or in hospitals." The colour of the ribbon of this prized decoration amongst nurses and the medical fraternity is dark blue, with a red edge. One could write at great length upon the quiet heroic deeds performed by many of the members of this Order on the field of battle. Almost first in the list comes the honoured name of the late Miss Florence Nightingale of Crimean fame. We also notice the name of Lady Roberts, who received the decoration for service rendered to the Army in India. On the field of battle, too, many women showed coolness, pluck, and endurance while attending to the wounds of the fallen soldiers, and several of them were awarded the Order of St. John of Jerusalem for their heroic devotion.

FOREIGN ORDERS.

Although there are only four or five Orders that can be bestowed upon women by the English court, there are, nevertheless, some twenty foreign Orders that are open to women. Spain was evidently the first European country to honour women, for we find that they were admitted into the Spanish Order of St. James of Compostella so far back as 1312. In 1792 the same country instituted the Order of Maria Ladies residing in Spain, who are members of the Order, are required to visit some hospital for women once a month. Queen Alexandra and the Duchess of Albany are two of the English ladies who held this Order. Another ancient and interesting foreign decoration for women is the Austrian Order of the Star Cro- Admittance to this Order is not easy, seeing that the candidate must prove to possess sixteen noble ancestors, eight on the mother's side and eight on the father's side. She must also promise to lead a Christian life, to visit hospitals, succour the sick and poor, to preserve the purity of word and deed, shelter the homeless as well as recite a certain numbers of prayers each day, and attend Mass regularly. The Russian Order of St. Catherine also requires certain stringent conditions of its members. Lastly comes the great national order of France, the Legion of Honour, with nearly a hundred women on its list. The celebrated animal painter, Rosa Bonheur, was a member of this Order, and in 1894 she was promoted to the rank of "officier." Perhaps in the near future we shall see women figuring in the New Year's Lists and Brithday Honours.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF RADIUM RAYS.

Working in the laboratory of Mdme. Curie, M. Frischauer has discovered that the rays from a strong radium preparation have a remarkable effect in inducing crystallisation. If such rays are allowed to act on supersaturated solutions, or liquids cooled below the normal temperature of solidification, these immediately assume the crystaline form. The effect of the radium emanations seems to be that of starting the action of crystallisation. In the case of both the supersaturated solution and the cooled liquid, crystallisation has been delayed until subnormal conditions have been reached. In both cases it may be supposed that there is a state of unstable equilibrium among the molecules.

SUPERSATURATED SOLUTION.

The first case may be illustrated by dissolving as much sulphate of sodium as possible in hot water. By cooling this down very carefully, and without agitation, it may be reduced to a much lower temperature without solidification. Thus we may have a solution containing much more sulphate of sodium than the water could have dissolved at its actual temperature. This is called a supersaturated solution. Stirring it with a glass rod, or dropping in a crystal, induces immediate solidification. Again, with certain precautions, a liquid such as water may be cooled below its normal freezing point without becoming solid. Any agitation, however, or the dropping into it of a fragment of ice, causes it to solidify. In each case the state of unstable equilibrium of the molecules may be supposed to be upset.

HOW THE RAYS ACT.

It is interesting to find that the action of the radium rays produces the same effect. The explanation given is that the electrons, or particles of electricity, set the molecules of the liquid in motion, or perhaps rather push them from their positions of unstable equilibrium. And in rearranging themselves the molecules take up the crystalline form. That it is some form of electrical force is further indicated by Frischauer's determination that the Rontgen rays do not produce a similar effect on supersaturated solutions.

EXPLANATION OF TIN PEST.

Frischauer's researches also throw some light on a curious phenomenon which has been observed on old tin-ware. A few years ago was discovered what has been called disease of metals. In the case of old tin-ware this takes the form of a spotting of the mental with an amorphous grey powder. The "disease" has been called "tin pest," and found to be contagious. That is to say, if unspotted tin-ware is placed in contact with the grey powder of the spots the plating crumbles to dust. But the disease is only spontaneous in old tin-ware. Freschauer, however, has produced it in new tin by the action of the Radium rays. This suggests that the "disease" is a molecular change, which occurs spontaneously with the lapse of time, but which like the solidification of the supersaturated solution and the cooled liquid, may be accelerated by suitable means. There is an interesting analogy between the effect of introducing a crystal, or a piece of ice, into the liquid, and the effect of the grey powder in imparting the "disease" to the new tin.

BEER WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

The attempts on the part of certain brewers to obtain a non-alcoholic beer have resulted in the discovery of a curious phenomenon in fermentation. This result was communicated to a recent meeting of the Institute of Brewery. The method of removing the alcohol was by passing a stream of carbon dioxide through the beer. Beers thus treated were found to contain only 0-2 per cent. of alcohol. When cooled down, however, and aerated with carbon dioxide they were found to contain from one to two per cent. Whether this increase of alcohol is due to further fermentation from the presence of some hither to unsuspected ferment, or is caused by purely chemical changes induced by the treatment, remains to be determined. It is to be remembered, however, that the increase of alcohol in any sugary solution beyond a certain point automatically puts a stop to fermentation. Is it not possible that the removal of alcohol would permit renewal of fermentation?

TESTS FOR THE OVERBECK PROCESS.

Preparations are being completed in Grimsby for the establishment of the first dealcoholised beer brewery in the world, and it is anticipated that by the first week in March beer treated by the Overbeck, process will be available for public consump-tion. Before it is actually put on the market, however, Mr. Overbeck, who is a Fellow of the Chemical Society, proposes to subject his process to a test of a very stringent character. He will invite members of Parliament, brewers, brewers' chemists, and others interested in the subject to attend a demonstration, at which any beer selected by them will be treated by the dealcoholising process and hand-to them in sealed bottles in order that it may be subjected to the strictest analytical tests. Mr. Overbeck claims that beer so treated not only loses all its alcohol, but undergoes in the process no change whatever in point of aroma, flavour, and nutritive properties, and if this claim is supported by the tests proposed, Parliament will be asked to place the dealcoholised beer industry on the same footing as the aerated water business, the loss in revenue being counterbalanced by all brewers of such beer taking out distillers' licences to enable them to deal with the spirit extracted from the beer. This can, it is claimed, be methylated and sold at 6d. per gallon for motor car engines.

EUGENICS.

The science of Eugenics, for his connection with which the late Sir Francis Galton will perhaps be chiefly remembered, is a well meant attempt to apply the scientific principles of breeding to the human race. Such a mild and moderate application of these principles as the promoters of Eugenics advocate is, however, calculated to be little more than a Partington broom against the tide of adverse influences to which the human race is subject. And coming as it does from firm believers in the potency of natural selection to evolve new and improved races, it almost seems a confession of weakness, and a sign of declining faith in the theory. For if it be true that it is natural selection which,

"from so low
Hath lifted man so high," surely it might be trusted to effect any further improvement required without the aid of Eugenics. And it is more than probable that the preversity of human nature will defeat the well-meant efforts of the promoters of this science.

INHERITANCE OF ACQUIRED CHARACTER.

Mr. F. B. Sumner has recently carried out some experiments in the breeding of white mice which seem to indicate that acquired characters, otherwise somatic modifications, may be inherited. The facts however, are not very decisive, and may, perhaps, be explained otherwise. Mr. Summer found that mice reared in a warm room different considerably from those reared in a cold room as regards length of tail, foot, and ear, these all being longer in the former. When the offspring of these two lots were reared together in one room they were found to differ as their parents had done.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

The increase of 240 pages in the new edition of Dr. Fleming's "Principles of Wireless Electric Telegraphy and Telephony is a striking sign of the progress that has been made in the art and science of radiotelegraphy during the last four years. Since the appearance of the first edition radiotelephony has proved to be such a fruitful extension of radiotelegraphy that the addition of "Telephony" to the title will cause no surprise. There are a good many alterations in the text, with considerable additions both in the way of analysis and description. For instance, antennae and the phenomena connected with them are responsible for about twenty-five fresh pages. There are some fifty fresh pages on appliances, about seventy on radiotelegraphic stations, and twenty on radiotelephony. The list of British patents is now omitted. The text of the International Convention of 1906 is given in full. We note that the term "cymoscope" barely holds its own as compared with "detector." We have detected but two misprints in these 900 pages. Poincare has still his wrong accent, and the equilateral "hypolata" is not among the curves of which Canning, Frere, Gifford, and Ellis sang so sweetly in the "Loves of the Triangles." Dr. Fleming's "Principles" is still the classic on the subject. His closing words strike a somewhat depressing note. "It cannot be denied that the earlier promises of radiotelegraphy have not been altogether fulfilled . . . radiotelegraphy can never become a commercial and widely used means of communication until a simple and easily managed means of producing persistent oscillations is obtained. In short, the high-frequency alternator is too expensive, and the are method too uncertain, to afford a thoroughly satisfactory basis for operating commercial radiotelegraphy at the present time."

DR. PROSSER JAMES,
Lecturer on Materia Medica, London Hospital.

"Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL contains the whole of the active ingredients of the remedy, and is easily digested. Hence its value, not only in Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, but in a great number of cases to which the Profession is extending its use."

DR. HUNTER SEMPLE,
Physician to the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat and Chest, London.

"I have long been aware of the great reputation enjoyed by the LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL introduced into medical practice by Dr. DE JONGH, and have recommended it with the utmost confidence. I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that it possesses all the qualities of a good and efficient medicine. Its taste is by no means disagreeable, and might even be called pleasant. I have found Dr. DE JONGH'S OIL very useful in cases of Chronic Cough, and especially in Laryngeal Disease complicated with Consumption."

DR. SAUNDERS, C.B.,
Late Deputy-Inspector-General Army Hospitals, Superintendent London Medical Mission.

"I have used Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL extensively among the sick poor of St. Giles's, and consider it a valuable remedy, especially in the Wasting Diseases of Children."

DR. WHITMORE,
Medical Officer of Health, St. Marylebone, London.

"My own somewhat lengthened experience as a Medical Practitioner enables me with confidence to recommend Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT BROWN COD LIVER OIL as being more uniform in quality, more certain in its effects, more palatable, and infinitely less likely to disagree with the stomach than the Pale Oil. If I were asked for an explanation of the marked success which for so many years has attended the administration of Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL, I should say that it is owing to its extraordinary medicinal, dietetic, and regiminal properties, and which are found to exist in no other medicine that I am acquainted with, in such uniform combination.

Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL Half-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with BETTS' Patent Capsule impressed on the top with Dr. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature, and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bearing under the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures.
